SECRETARY'S FOREWORD.

THERE is one class of men who, when they receive a secretary's notice, sit down at once and answer it — if possible I would present these each a gold medal. There is a second class who, on receiving a second notice after a lapse of six months, find time enough to reply — my thanks to these. There is a third class who reply after three or four appeals — these are to be congratulated. Finally there is still another class whom no amount of appeals, printed, written, or verbal, can move from a state of inborn modesty which prevents them unveiling the story of their lives to an awaiting and expectant class. These have my sympathy as well as wrath.

There are at present five hundred and eighteen members of the class of 1896. This number includes all men who received degrees of A.B. or S.B. in that year excepting those men strongly affiliated with other classes, and all temporary and special students who have signified their desire to be counted as one of us. Of this total number, fifty-three men have for various and sundry reasons seen fit to ignore my repeated requests for some account of themselves for this report. This, I think, is a comparatively small number, but I wish that it did not exist at all. There are ten men letters to whom have been returned to me as unclaimed. In addition there are a few men (mostly temporary members) from whom I have heard nothing since 1896, whose names I have consequently dropped from the list. I trust that there are very few errors, but for all those of commission I am ready to take the blame, for those of omission please do not hold me responsible.

In presenting this report to the class I thank here those members who have assisted me with news items as to lost men and otherwise, and I also hand you all my resignation as secretary. It is with regret that I do this, as it is very enjoyable to be in such close touch with the class as a whole, but after this year I do not expect to be in this part of the country, and for the interests of the class it is better to have as secretary a man living close to our university. So now I bid you farewell and sign myself for the last time

HENRY RANDOLPH STORRS,

Secretary Class of 1896.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

APRIL 1, 1906.

Since submitting the last report, dated June 1, 1901, the Treasurer has received five new subscriptions, making a total of 299 subscribers. The amount of the fund subscribed to date is $9,018, of which $7,203.90 has been paid. Of the men receiving degrees in 1896 there are 151 who have not subscribed to the Class Fund, and of the men who were temporarily connected with the class there are 148 non-subscribers. The fund is at present invested in the following bonds:

2,000 St. Louis Terminals, 5%.

1,000 Newton, Washington-street Loan, 4%.

1,000 N.Y. Central, Lake Shore Collateral, $3\frac{1}{2}\%$.

1,000 Illinois Central, $3\frac{1}{2}\%$.

600 General Electric, $3\frac{1}{2}\%$.

ROBERT H. HALLOWELL,
Treasurer.

RECORDS OF THE CLASS.

ALLAN ABBOTT. Watertown, Mass. Dec. 27, 1900, married Mary Allen Rand (Radcliffe, '99), of Watertown, Mass.; 1900-1902, teacher of various things at the Washington School for boys. From 1902 until the present time, teacher of English in the Horace Mann High School, New York City, where I am now the senior member of my department (English).

THEODORE J. ABBOTT. 123 East 78th street, New York, N.Y. 1900, received degree of M.D., Columbia University, New York City; 1900-1902, house officer, Bellevue Hospital, New York City; 1902-1906, practising medicine, New York City. Not married.

AUGUSTUS FRANKLIN ALLEN. Jamestown, N.Y. I was elected a member of the Board of Supervisors of Chautauqua County from the city of Jamestown, April 4, 1905. I am unmarried.

FRANK STRATTON ALMY. News Office, Fall River, Mass. On Oct. 7, 1904, married Marion Stafford of Fall River. Have been employed on Fall River News since 1896. Have been member of city government both as councilman and alderman since 1896.

EDWARD WINSLOW AMES. Wakefield, Mass. In August of 1901, while acting as private secretary to our then minister to Brazil, was appointed vice consul-general at Rio de Janeiro. Remained there in that capacity until May of 1902, when I went direct to Buenos Aires, having been appointed secretary of our legation to the Argentine Republic. Was chargé d'affaires there from the end of March to the end of December, 1903. In January of 1904 returned to the United States on leave after an absence of over four years, going via the Cordillera, the West Coast, and the Isthmus of Panama. On reaching Washington was transferred to the legation at Santiago, Chile, with the understanding that I should have a long chargeship there, beginning soon after my arrival. Spent three months in the United States and sailed for Chile, via the Straits of Magellan, in June of 1904. Arrived in Valparaiso July 17, and two days later — just one year ago to-day — took charge of the legation, the then minister having sailed immediately on my arrival. Have been here at Santiago or in the immediate vicinity since, except for a three weeks' trip in February and March to Puerto Montt and other cities of southern Chile, and the famous Nahuel Huopi Lake, just over the border in Argentina. To any one wishing a new winter trip, I would strongly recommend the Chile-Argentine lake region.

LEROY ALLSTON AMES. Spencer, Mass. 1901, A.M. Harvard University; 1901 to date, teacher of English, English High School, Worcester, Mass.

GEORGE G. AMORY. 378 Beacon street, Boston. Is with Devens, Lyman & Co.

GEORGE S. AMSDEN. 59 Prospect street, Ashtabula, Ohio. Graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1905, and is at present resident physician at the Bloomingdale Hospital, N.Y.

THOMAS WOOD ANDREWS. Merion, Pa., Box 134.

W. SUMNER APPLETON. 845 Boylston street, Boston. I have been in pretty poor health most of the time since the last report and accordingly gave up active business. I spent one winter at Camden, S.C., and have been in or near Boston since then. Am now all right again and for the moment acting as Secretary to the Paul Revere Memorial Association, which is raising the money to buy and preserve the home of Paul Revere. All contributions welcome.

RAYMOND C. ARCHIBALD. Sackville, N.B., Canada. I took my Ph.D. in mathematics at Strasburg in E. Germany in 1900, and have ever since been a member of the Faculty of the Mount Allison Ladies' College, Sackville, N.B. Have had charge of the violin department, also taught a couple of mathematical classes. Am also librarian, having founded the library three years ago. Have contributed frequently to mathematical magazines such as: Educational Times; Annals of Mathematics; L'Intermédiaire des Math. A bibliography of the life and works of Simon Newcomb is about to appear in the Transactions of the Royal Society of Canada. Unmarried. No children.

EDWARD DOW ARMSTRONG. Hartford City, Ind., Hercules Torpedo Company. Until November, 1902, I was in my old position at the Lewiston Bleachery and Dye Works, Lewiston, Me. At that time I accepted a position as chemist with the Climax Powder Manufacturing Company at Emporium, Pa., manufacturers of high explosives. This firm was absorbed by the DuPont interests in May of the following year, and I remained with them until September, 1903, when I was appointed superintendent of the Indiana Glycerine Company Plant at this place, manufacturers of torpedoes for shooting of oil wells, controlled by the same interests. In March of this year the style of the firm was changed to the Hercules Torpedo Company, uniting, with a few exceptions, all the torpedo companies in the country. Was appointed manager of this plant, which supplies the State of Indiana and Western Ohio with nitro-glycerine for shooting purposes. At the same time was made resident agent of the State for the above corporation. It's a nice business with a beautiful chance for "a young man to rise."

WILLIAM BILLINGS ASPINWALL. Loudonville, Albany County, N.Y. 1900, Pd.B. (Bachelor of Pedagogy), State Normal College, Albany, N.Y.; 1901, Pd.M. (Master of Pedagogy), State Normal College, Albany, N.Y.; 1900-1904, assistant principal and supervisor of teaching at State Normal High School, Albany, N.Y.; 1902-1903, leave of absence spent at University of Paris, France; 1904, Ph.D. (Doctor of Philosophy), University of Paris, Paris, France. Thesis: Les Écoles Épiscopales et Monastiques de l'ancienne province ecclésiastique de Sens. du VI^e au XII^e siècle. 1904, principal and supervisor of teaching at State Normal High School, Albany, N.Y.

CHARLES F. ATWOOD. 687 Massachusetts avenue, Arlington, Mass. I do not think anything of interest to the class has happened to me since the last report.

RICHARD AUSTIN. Jamaica Plain, Mass. Am still at the old stand with Parkinson and Burr, and am unmarried and unencumbered.

CARL EDWARD BACON. 378 Wabash avenue, Chicago. Since 1900 I have been connected with the Chicago office of our firm, Allyn & Bacon, publishers. I have made long business trips each year to the South and to California, so that I have been very little in Chicago. In 1902 and again in 1905 took a four months' vacation in Europe. Still unmarried, no business or professional honors; publications — of other people's books — too numerous to mention.

S. E. BADGER. The Prudential Insurance Company, Newark, N.J. Soon after graduation I located in Newark, N.J., where I entered the employ of the Prudential Insurance Company, in the Home Office. I have remained ever since with mutual satisfaction. I am still single, with, consequently, no births or deaths to record. My permanent address is 6 Water street, Hyde Park, Mass.

FRANCIS NOYES BALCH. Permanent residence, 52 Eliot street, Jamaica Plain (tel. 268-3 Jamaica), Mass. Office, 60 State street, Boston (tel. 5005 Main), Mass. Marriage: June 22, 1904, married Pauline Katherine Bulson, daughter of Thomas L. and Mary E. Bulson, at Saint John's Church, Jamaica Plain. Birth and death: Born April 22, 1905, Francis Balch. Died May 4, aged twelve days. Both at 22 Eliot street, Jamaica Plain. Business: On Jan. 20, 1904, left the firm of Dunbar & Rachemann (succeeding Balch & Rachemann) and opened office of my own at 23 Court street; on April 1, 1905, formed partnership with Carleton Hunneman (Harvard, '89) under name of Hunneman & Balch and opened offices at 60 State street. Associated with us are Boylston A. Beal (Harvard, '86), Edward B. Adams (Harvard, '92), and Edward M. Bennett (Harvard, '93). Publications: A few minor notes, papers, and articles — nothing of general or lasting interest. As a member of Publication Committee of Good Government Association (together with Eliot N. Jones, '96, Robert B. Stone, '97, Russell G. Fessenden, '90, Robert A. Jackson, '99, John G. Palfrey, '96, and Courtenay Crocker, '01), am partly responsible for "City Affairs," the monthly publication of the association. Honors: Service on Committee to visit University Museum. Clubs: (social only) Union Club, January, 1904.

LYNN MOORE BARNES. Decatur, Ill. Office, 156 East Main street; residence, 333 West Eldorado street. In June, 1900, I received the degree of M.D. from the Harvard Medical School, and spent most of that summer in Boston doing medical work. In October, 1900, I began the practice of medicine in Decatur, Ill., where I have remained ever since. In the summer of 1901 I returned to Boston for a summer course in medicine. On Jan. 10, 1905, I married Miss Donna Ulery Buckingham, of Decatur, Ill.

CECIL BARRET. 70 West 55th street, New York City. On Jan. 1, 1905, became partner in the firm of Spencer Trask & Co. Bankers at 52 William street, New York City.

EDWARD F. W. BARTOL. Milton, Mass. Is practising medicine at above address.

GREGORY PAUL BAXTER. Boylston Hall, Cambridge, Mass. Instructor in chemistry at Haverford College, Haverford, Pa., in 1899-1900; assistant professor of chemistry at Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pa., in 1900-1902; instructor in analytical chemistry in Harvard College in 1902-1905; appointed assistant professor of chemistry in Harvard College from Sept. 1, 1905. Engagement to Miss Amy Bailey Sylvester, Radcliffe, 1898, was announced in June, 1904.

THEODORE CHAPIN BEEBE, JR. 416 Marlborough street, Boston. Since graduating from the Harvard Medical School in 1903, have served as surgical house officer at the Boston City Hospital for two years. Afterwards served as resident surgeon at the Relief Station for six months. Am now engaged in practice at the above address. Early this year was appointed assistant surgeon to the Boston Dispensary. Have published one paper on "A Comparison of Anæsthetics." Am not married nor am I engaged. Am a member of the Puritan Club, and one of the Board of Governors.

HECTOR LOUIS BELISLE. 6 Sheridan street, Lawrence, Mass. For four years after leaving college I taught in the Lawrence (Mass.) High School, my work being mainly with classes in French. Since September, 1900, I have held the position of master of the John R. Rollins school in the same city. After a nine years' conflict with the captivating charms of the fair sex I closed a simple but decisive campaign by surrendering to the besieged. The defender, Miss Mildred Grace Potter, of Dorchester, won the easiest kind of a victory over the attacking party. The formal articles of capitulation were agreed to on June 28, 1905. During the engagement several "Filipinos" were lost; but the process of "benevolent assimilation" is now well underway.

STOUGHTON BELL. 164 Brattle street, Cambridge; office, 60 State street, associated with Putnam & Putnam in the practice of the law. In the Cambridge Common Council, 1900, 1901; in the Cambridge Board of Aldermen, 1902, 1903.

BRUCE W. BELMORE. 1248 Grand street, Brooklyn, N.Y. I am still unmarried, practising law; no partnership connection. Nothing that would interest my classmates has occurred since 1900, and have held no office of any importance. Just mediocre, you know.

ELLIOT STUART BENEDICT. 76 William street, New York City. Still alive, but nothing new since 1900 in the way of "events" or "honors."

MONTEFIORE BIENENSTOK. 901 Carr street, St. Louis, Mo. Destiny made me a man; man and destiny conspired to make me a "charity worker." I hope I am a good one. The Jewish Year Book of 1905 mentions me among the prominent Jewish communal workers of the United States. Is it not to laugh? Yet during the past four years I have worked hard—so hard that at night I am usually too tired to write the brilliant stories that float through my mind, or to pen the great thoughts that might reform a nation or the United States Senate, to say the least. But how can I have time for such great work when

I am only: assistant secretary, Jewish Charitable and Educational Union of St. Louis; manager, Free Employment Bureau, United Jewish Charities; agent, Industrial Removal Office of New York; Secretary, Home for Aged and Infirm Israelites of St. Louis, and a few other little, big-titled things that consume my daylight hours? In addition to the routine of these offices, I was chairman of the press committee and assistant to the arrangements' committee of the biennial council of the Union of American Jewish Congregation held in St. Louis; was a delegate to the National Conference of Jewish Charities in New York in 1904; was assistant to the committee which raised $100,000 for the additions to the St. Louis Jewish Hospital; and acted as a sort of a sub-treasurer for the Russian Relief Fund, which raised $33,000 in three weeks for the Russian sufferers, a few weeks ago. Besides all this I compiled the statistics for the Jewish charity exhibit from St. Louis at the World's Fair, which was awarded an honorable mention. And I am only a little over five feet tall; all of which shows what a man can and will do when he needs the money, to say nothing of fame. But this is not all. During this period I managed to write, and what is more wonderful, to have published, a number of stories and articles, some in daily papers, some in the Modern View of St. Louis, and one in the St. Louis Mirror, which will soon perpetrate another. Among these articles was one about the World's Fair for the New Era Illustrated Magazine, of New York, and an account of the St. Louis ghetto, in Jewish Charity, of New York, a monthly devoted to philanthropic endeavor. And as an apogee to all earthly ambition, an Eastern publishing house may publish a volume of my short stories — I must send them a few more to fill a good-sized book before the matter can be decided definitely. This is about all, except that neither my hat nor my pocket-book have grown larger since I left college. But work, like virtue, is its own reward, and I will die happy if my life can truthfully be epitomized in those eloquently beautiful words recently uttered by a St. Louis politician : " I seen my duty and I done it."

HARRY A. BIGELOW. The University of Chicago (the Law School), Chicago. The following are the only facts of my career since 1900 that can be considered of any importance, even for a class report : 1900-1903, practised law in Honolulu, H.I ; 1902, married ; 1904-1906, member of Faculty of the Law School of the University of Chicago.

NEWTON HENRY BLACK. Roxbury Latin School, Kearsarge avenue, Boston, Mass. For the past five years I have been teaching physics and chemistry in the Roxbury Latin School. Each year I have done a little graduate work at Harvard, usually in physics or chemistry. Last summer I spent in Germany and Switzerland studying schools and universities. Not married. No prospects.

LINZEE BLAGDEN. 18 East 36th street, New York City. In October, 1901, I entered the New York office of Richardson, Herrick & Neave, and have been associated with that firm down to the present time, being engaged chiefly in the practice of patent law at No. 80 Broadway, New York City.

H. L. BLANCHARD. Home Bank building, Brockton, Mass. Real estate and fire insurance.

WILLIAM ERNEST BLODGETT. 312 Washington Arcade, Detroit, Mich. The last four years have been working at orthopedic surgery and last fall opened an office here to practise orthopedics for myself. Since I came here the Harvard men have got together and formed the " Harvard Club in Michigan." No need to say I should enjoy having any '96 man to drop in on me any time.

JOSEPH NAPOLEON BLYE. Until Jan. 1, 1901, with Baltimore & Ohio Railroad ; January, 1901, to January, 1902, with Automobile Company of America, Jersey City, N.J. ; January, 1902, to February, 1905, with Trunk Line Association, New York City ; February, 1905, to date, with Central Railroad of New Jersey in chief engineer's office. Am not married and my permanent address is 143 Liberty street, New York City.

SAMUEL WARD BOARDMAN, JR. Home address, 17 Washington place, Bloomfield, N.J. Business address, Union building, Newark, N.J. There has been no marriage, and naturally no birth or death, in my case. In November, 1902, I was admitted as counsellor at law in the New Jersey Supreme Court, and immediately thereafter as attorney, counsellor, proctor, etc., in the United States Circuit and District Courts for the district of New Jersey. In July, 1904, I was appointed special master and examiner in Chancery of New Jersey. I am a member of the Lawyers Club of Essex County, the Harvard Club of New Jersey, the Bloomfield Board of Trade. Since November, 1904, the greater part of my working hours has been spent as settlement lawyer in the title department of the Fidelity Trust Company of Newark, but have lately resumed the general practice of law.

CHARLES DUNBAR BOOTH. 191 Middle street, Portland, Me. Married Aug. 14, 1901, to Florence J. Mack. Now practising law at Portland, Me., as member of firm of Verrill, Hale & Booth. Cumberland Club.

PERCY NEWHALL BOOTH. Married Oct. 23, 1901, to Miss Florence Coleman Curd, of Louisville. Have one child, Florence Joyes ; born Nov. 14, 1902. Present home address, 1405 Longest avenue, Louisville, Ky. Moved law offices in February, 1904, to Kenyon building, 216 Fifth street, Louisville, where I am now located, sharing offices with R. A. McDowell. Have been practising law continuously in Louisville since September, 1899.

ALFRED BORDEN. 120 Broadway, New York City. 1900 to March, 1902, bond salesman for Vermilye & Co., bankers; March and April, 1902, scarlet fever in the Minturn Hospital, New York City; May and June, traveled through Italy, France, and England; July, 1902, started in the banking business with William Procter, Yale S. '94. Firm name Procter & Borden, 120 Broadway, New York City; Jan. 2, 1905, married Miss Mary Elizabeth Tuthill, of Chicago; now living at 15 West 8th street, New York City. Since 1903 have been member of Squadron A., N.G., N.Y.

CHARLES BOUCHER. 237 Central Park, West, New York. I am living in New York, am unmarried, and for the past three years have been with Millett, Roe & Hagen, bankers.

STANTON S. BOULTON. M.D., graduated Missouri Medical College, 1899. Located at Hudson, Ill., since 1899. Local surgeon Illinois Central Railroad. Member McLean County and Illinois State Medical Societies.

THOMAS TRACY BOUVÉ. Hingham, Mass. Events of any importance either to myself or others have been confined since 1900 to the birth of a daughter (Anne Winston Cabell, May 19, 1900) and the failure (1902) of the publishing house with which I started in business. Since the latter event I have applied myself to literary work from the other side of the fence.

EDEN K. BOWSER. Park avenue, Wakefield, Mass. Business address, Richardson building, Wakefield, Mass. Not married. Thriving according to the custom of lawyers.

HORACE BRIGHT BRAINARD. Thompsonville, Conn. Purchasing agent Hartford Carpet Corporation of Thompsonville, Conn.

ISRAEL BRAYTON. 260 North Main street, Fall River, Mass. Business address, 23 South Main street. Graduated from Harvard Law School, '99, and since then have practised law in my native city, Fall River. In 1902 was admitted to firm with which I am now practising, Jennings, Morton & Brayton. Am not married. Have no public offices. Am vice-president of B. M. C. Durfee Trust Company and director in First National Bank of this city.

WILLIAM LAWTON SLADE BRAYTON. 425 Cheny street, Fall River, Mass. I remained with Sagamore Manufacturing Company until September, 1902, when I formed a partnership with Geo. H. Waring, under the name of Waring & Brayton, 76 Bedford street, to do a brokerage business in cotton, cotton cloths, and yarns. We have been fairly successful, and have managed to pay all just debts. I am a director of the Durfee Mills, and clerk of the Board of Directors of the Sagamore Manufacturing Company. I have the honor of being treasurer for the past few years of the Harvard Club of Fall River, which has a membership of about seventy-five. For several years I have been clerk of the First Congregational Society. I was married June 18, 1903, to Miss Mary E. Ashley of Fall River, and have one child, a son, Lawton Slade Brayton, born June 20, 1904.

ERNEST BREHAUT. 611 North Lejon street, Colorado Springs, Col. I have been teaching Greek and Latin in Colorado College since 1898.

CLIFTON L. BREMER. 331 Tremont building, Boston. Practising law at the above address. Married, Oct. 19, 1904, to Leslie McG. Morison.

JOHN LEWIS BREMER. 416 Beacon street, Boston. Graduated 1901 from Harvard Medical School; assistant in histology, Harvard Medical School, 1901-2; instructor in histology and embryology, Harvard Medical School, 1902-3, 1903-4, 1904-5, 1905-6.

ARTHUR HARRIS BREWER. American Club, Guadalajara, Mexico. Have large mining interests in Mexico. Married Flora Geist and have one son, born October, 1905.

CHARLES BREWER. 84 State street, Boston. Is with Wrenn Brothers. Two children (girls) born since last report.

CHARLES O. BRITTON. Practising law in Indianapolis. Address, 16 Fletcher Bank building. Unmarried.

ALLISON BROWN. 202 Randolph building, Memphis, Tenn. I am a physician. Have been practising medicine since 1898. Specialist in genito-urinary and venereal diseases. Unmarried.

CHARLES HASTINGS BROWN. 11 Mayfair street, Roxbury, Mass. For the first five years after graduation I was engaged in teaching, either privately or in a small private school in Salem, Mass. In the fall of 1901, I entered the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge. During the three years of the course I also tutored more or less. I received the degree of Bachelor of Divinity and was ordained to the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal Church, June 1, 1904, and on June 19 became curate in St. James' Church, Roxbury, of which the Rev. Murray W. Dewart is rector. Here I expect to remain indefinitely. Honors have not crowded upon me. In the theological school I had a small office or two; in the years 1901-2 I was one of the wardens of St. Peter's Church, Beverly, Mass. I have published nothing but a few short articles, chiefly of a historical nature. Still unmarried.

EDWIN H. BROWN. 1020 Harmon place, Minneapolis, Minn. The seasons of 1900, 1901, 1902, and 1905 were spent at Nome, Alaska. In the winter of 1902 I went round the world, and the winter of next year I was at work in Madrid, Spain. The remainder of the time has been spent in Minneapolis, where I am now, at my profession of mechanical engineering. Permanent address is 70 Elm street, Worcester, Mass. Am still single, and without prospects.

HARRY LAMPREY BROWN. The University Club, Boston, Mass. I am still running the Islesboro Inn in the summer, and the Victoria all the year round. I do not think of a single thing of note that has happened to me since the last report.

HOWARD D. BROWN. 21 Milk street, Boston, care of E. H. Rollins & Sons. Have recently gone with above banking firm. Since graduation spent six years in Chicago, and then three years as high school and college representative of the American Book Company in Boston. April 24, 1905, was married to Miss Phebe Frances Steere, of Providence, R.I. No children.

NOAH JAY BRUMBAUGH. U.S. Patent Office, Washington, D.C. Births: Granville Martin Brumbaugh, March 10, 1901; Mark Flory Brumbaugh, Jan. 26, 1904. Appointed an examiner in the U.S. Patent Office, Aug. 5, 1901, which position I am still occupying.

CHARLES EGBERT BRYAN. Ruxton, Baltimore County, Maryland. General contract agent, the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. (office, Baltimore, Md.).

CHARLES S. BRYANT. Millinocket, Me. In January, 1901, after finishing an appointment at the Children's Hospital in Boston, I came to Millinocket, a place of which two months previous I had never heard, and which two years before was not in existence. I came to minister unto afflicted humanity as represented by the men receiving accidents while at work in the large paper mill, which is the "raison d'être" of the place. So I am now the "Comp'ny Doctor." I came to Maine to gain experience, and have had experiences. I have performed operations with the assistance of one inexperienced helper (intoxicated at that, he, not I), which in my Medical School wisdom I had supposed would require at least two assistants and a nurse. I have had the privilege of singing at the funerals of patients (not those operated upon as might be expected). I have routed men out of bed and hurried them off to quarantine during a smallpox epidemic. I have joined lodges; have taken part in plays and concerts; have given talks and demonstrations at the High School; have acted in the Fire Department, in short have done a little of everything of the many things that occur in a small town wholly dependent on its own resources. Through it all I have remained a bachelor, not only of Arts, but a bachelor in the community. Therefore I have no births or deaths to record.

CLARENCE E. BUBB. 139 East 3d street, Williamsport, Pa. Married June 26, 1900; two sons, James Derr and John Piper, aged four and three years, respectively. Represents Johnson, Hayward & Piper, manufacturing jewellers, 588-590 Broadway, New York City.

WILLIAM BRADFORD BUCK. The Capitol, Albany, N.Y. PAUL CAPRON. Rowley, R. F. D., Mass. I returned to Dummer Academy to teach in the fall of 1900, and have been teaching there up to this time. I was married July 6, 1904, to Lina Waldo Martin of the Parish of Byfield, town of Rowley, Mass.

MICHAEL F. CARNEY. On Feb. 1, 1905, I left Boston to accept a position as attorney with the Liability Department of the Travelers Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. I was stationed at the home office at Hartford for a few weeks, and on March 1 was appointed attorney adjuster for that company, having for my territory the States of Indiana and Kentucky. Address all communications to M. F. Carney, Adjuster, care Travelers Insurance Company, 300 Indiana Trust building, Indianapolis, Ind.

H. F. CARTY. Care Thomas F. Martin, 712 Walnut street, Philadelphia.

HENRY ARTHUR CASSEBEER. 12 West 44th street, New York City. June, 1900, received degree of M.D. from College Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University. July, 1900, secured appointment by competitive examination on First Medical Division, Bellevue Hospital; graduated from there July 1, 1902, as house physician. From July 15, 1902, until March, 1903, studied medicine in hospitals of Vienna, Austria, and Berlin, Germany. Since then have practised medicine in New York City, 12 West 44th street. Am member of Harvard Club, New York, Bellevue Alumni Society, County Medical Society. July 1, 1903, received appointment of assistant physician to Roosevelt Hospital Dispensary.

JOHN B. CHAMBERLIN. 20 Congress street, Boston. I know of nothing to say that would be of any interest to the class.

EDWARD N. CHASE. Concord, Mass. Married June 1, 1904, Lillian May Hillman of Pontiac, Mich. Business address, care of Carret, Chase & Stasy, counselors at law, 713 Exchange building, Boston.

GEORGE HENRY CHASE. 24 Grays Hall, Cambridge. Have been teaching at Harvard since September, 1901, two years as instructor in Greek and Latin (1901-03), one as tutor in Greek (1903-04) and one as instructor in classical archæology (1904-05). Publications: "The Shield Devices of the Greeks," in Harvard Classical Studies for 1902; chapter on "Terra Cotta Figurines," in Waldstein's Argive Heræum, Vol. II., 1905. Societies: American Philological Association, and Archæological Institute of America.

ALBION B. CLAPP. Holden, Mass. Is auditor for Worcester & Holden Street Railway. Married, Oct. 31, 1905.

ELLERY H. CLARK. 341 Tremont building, Boston. I am still practising law. I was married on June 17, 1904, to Victoria Maddalena. I have served on the Boston School Committee for the years 1903, 1904, 1905.

ELTON CLARK. Framingham, Mass. Partner in firm of Ingersoll, Amory & Co., 95 Milk street, Boston, cotton buyers. Partner in firm of von Harten & Clark, Galveston, Texas, cotton buyers.

JOHN CALVIN LAWRENCE CLARK. Lancaster, Mass. Since leaving college I have resided in Lancaster, Mass., but have traveled in the United States, Canada, and the West Indies. I hold several town offices, which take up a good deal of my time, and am doing some historical writing, though I have as yet published nothing in book form. I was married Feb. 28, 1901, to Miss Ethel May Savage, of Harvard, Mass. We have one child, Hugh Savage Clark, born Feb. 18, 1903.

PERCY HAMILTON CLARK. School House lane, Germantown, Pa. After graduating in '96 I entered the University of Pennsylvania, a law school, where I took my degree in 1899. Since that time I have been practising law in the office of my brother, J. S. Clark (Harvard, '83). On Oct. 15, 1904, I was married to Miss Elizabeth W. Roberts. We are living in an old house in Germantown which we repaired last summer, and where we are always glad to welcome members of the class of '96.

ALFRED CODMAN. 19 Exchange place, Boston, Mass., Codman, Grew & Co., stock-brokers. Married Miss Lydia Eliot, Sept. 16, 1901, at Nahant, Mass. Have two children.

ALFRED COESTER. Commercial High School, Brooklyn, N.Y. The year from July, 1901, to July, 1902, I spent in Europe, mainly in Spain; the rest of time I have been teaching, with the exception of a part of the academic year 1904-05, when I was registered in the graduate school of Harvard University.

CHARLES EDWARD COLLIGAN. Waltham, Mass. Lawyer. Special counsel Boston Elevated Railroad. Married, June 25, 1902, to Lilly Patricia Leary of Waltham. Daughter, Patricia Travis, born March 6, 1904. Have been speaker in several campaigns for Republican State and National Committees.

GEORGE LEMAN COLLINS. Care of the Surgeon General, United States Marine Hospital Service, Washington, D.C. I finished my term as house officer in the Carney Hospital, Boston, in April, 1901. Took competitive examination for appointment as first lieutenant and assistant surgeon in U.S. Army in May, 1902, before a board in Washington examining 129 doctors. Came out first making 983 out of a possible 1,000. With seventeen other successful candidates was commissioned first lieutenant and assistant surgeon in the U.S. Army in June, 1902. I was detailed to attend 1902-3 session of the U.S. Army Medical School in Washington and served mostly in artillery garrisons. After successfully passing a competitive examination for commission in the U.S. Marine Hospital Service I resigned from the army and accepted this commission in October, 1903. I am now serving in this corps. I am not married.

EDWIN H. COLPITTS. 125 Milk street, Boston. After graduation I spent two and one-half years in the Harvard Graduate School. I then entered the employ of the American Bell Telephone Company as an assistant in the Mechanical Department. About May, 1902, this department was merged into the Engineering Department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and I have been since that time an electrical engineer in this department of the latter company. My office address is 125 Milk street, Boston. I was married on Aug. 17, 1899, to Annie D. Penney of Carbonear, N.F., and we have one child, a boy, Donald Bethune, now about five years old.

HENRY S. COLTON. Has for the past few years been failing in health, suffering from nervous prostration.

RALPH W. CONE. 1310 Louisiana street, Lawrence, Kan. My position is the same as in 1900, assistant professor of sociology and economics, in the University of Kansas. I was married Dec. 20, 1900, to Ellen Mabel Sayre, second daughter of Dean Lucius E. Sayre of the School of Pharmacy of the university. Dec. 26, 1901, daughter, Jeannette, born. Dec. 14, 1903, son, John Paine, born.

JOHN THOMAS COOPER. Parkersburg, W. Va. There has been little change since the last report, except progress in the legal way. "More and harder work," puts it about right. While a detailed account of such work might be of interest to the writer himself in future years, it would scarcely make an interesting narrative for his friends, and he has enough fellow feeling not to attempt to impose upon in any such way. He continues to practise law in his home town of Parkersburg, W. Va., with offices in the Citizens' Bank building.

AUSTIN CORBIN. 192 Broadway, New York. There has been no change in my affairs since 1900. I am still engaged in the banking business, being junior partner in the Corbin Banking Company of this city. I am also engaged in the management of two real estate companies; I am treasurer of the New England Mortgage Security Company, and a director of the Coal and Iron National Bank, and some other minor companies. I have no deaths, marriages or births to report.

JOSEPH P. COTTON. 52 William street, New York City. Is practising law with Guthrie, Cravath & Henderson.

ELLIOT C. COWDIN. Maplehurst, Mt. Kisco, Westchester County, N.Y. I have nothing new to write. I am still tilling the soil, and trying to raise a race horse at this same old address.

ARCHIBALD COX. Counsellor at law, 229 Broadway, New York City.

EDWIN R. CRANE. Newton Highlands, Mass. I am a manual training teacher and tutor. Unmarried—no prospects yet. Since college I went to Normal School one year. Massachusetts Institute Technology one and one-half years, class of 1904. Taught for five years: master in St. Paul's School two years; director of manual training and drawing, Manchester (N.H.) Manual Training School, one and one-fourth years; Wilmington (Vt.) superintendent, and High School principal, schools in Martha's Vineyard, Newton, etc. Have lately been interested in gasolene engines—automobile and power boat. Expect to continue work in teaching and arts and crafts next fall.

GEORGE W. CREELMAN. Pottstown, Pa. Nothing amusing or interesting or exciting since last report. I think I am further off from the particular heaven that I mentioned in my last report than ever. I finished my sixth year of service in the Hotchkiss School in June, 1905. I have been elected to a position in the Hill School at Pottstown, Pa., and enter upon my new duties in September, 1905. I have been much interested in the summers in going into the northern Canadian forests.

JOHN F. CRONIN. Home address, 72 Wachusett street, Forest Hills; business address, 10 Tremont street, Boston. Am associated with my brother in the practice of law under the firm name of Cronin & Cronin with offices at 10 Tremont street, Boston, Mass.

J. W. CROWLEY. Kansas City, Mo. Nothing new. Still practising law. Member of the firm of Webster, Gilmer & Crowley, 325-329 New York Life building.

GEORGE C. CURTIS. 64 Crawford street, Boston, Mass. No marriages. In 1900-01, received a gold medal at Paris Exposition for State model, Metropolitan, Boston. In 1902 made the U.S. Senate models of City of Washington, now in Congressional Library. In 1902 was member of Dixie Expedition to Martinique. In 1904 received gold medal St Louis Exposition for geographic models. 1904–1905 spent about year and half exploration in the Coral Islands of South Pacific for Agassiz Museum, and will hold myself on tap to tell '96 at any time all about living with "South Sea savages."

HARRY APPLETON CURTIS. 27 West 43d street, New York. Since 1900 returned from mining work in Colorado. Worked for Lamb & Ritchie, Boston. Worked for Lincoln Caswell & Co., bankers, New York. Spent time in Europe and Panama. Am now with Lord Electric Company, New York. I belong to Racquet and Tennis Club, New York; Tennis and Racquet Club, Boston; Harvard Club, New York.

CHARLES HENRY DAVIS. Hamilton, Mass. I have recently moved to Hamilton. Am the happy father of two children and hope in the near future to be the possessor of a bank account.

RALPH DAVOL. Taunton, Mass. Paradoxically enough my college career was abbreviated by my appendix. Since early in Cleveland's administration I have dodged the undertaker about the country and suppose I am destined to be hung, having survived fourteen doctors and a sanatorium. Youthful indiscretions include scoop-hunting on a California daily, — several magazine articles and a brief biography (still extant in some Sunday-school libraries). Belong to the Post-Mortem Club (not so grewsome as it sounds — mostly artists and globe-trotters); was elected by a careless city council a trustee of the Public Library; am cursed with the artistic temperament (perhaps the curse is on my friends, for it is woe unto them Christmas and when they marry). High art and three square meals on a half-pint of health. There's the problem.

EDWARD B. DAY. Is with the Missouri Lumber and Mining Company. Grandin, Carter County, Mo.

PAUL DAY. Hopedale, Mass. I am an assistant superintendent in the Draper Company of this place and unmarried.

PHILIP R. DEAN. 174 West 102d street, New York City. Have spent the past eight years teaching physics and mathematics in the DeWitt Clinton High School, New York City. In 1903 joined two other men in publishing the Cheston-Dean-Timmerman Laboratory Manual of Experiments in Physics. In 1904 received from Columbia the A.M. degree. In 1901 married Miss Frances Flint (A.B. Cornell), at Geneva, Switzerland. One daughter, Florence Franklin, born February, 1903. Since then have tried "commuting it" to Newark in Jersey, but shall go back to a flat — can't stomach the ferry and the marshes. Occasionally play at duplicate whist — otherwise life rather tame. Often read of the great Wall street doings of our classmates, and would suggest that we all be tipped off when the next 25 point move in steel begins.

SELDEN PEABODY DELANY. Grace Church Rectory, Appleton, Wis. From May, 1900, to July, 1902, I was vicar of St. Stephen's Church, Menasha, Wis. Since July, 1902, I have been rector of Grace Church, Appleton, Wis. Thus far I have succeeded in remaining unmarried. As my work has consisted merely of attempts to extend the kingdom of Christ in this ungodly world, I fear it would not be of much interest to the members of the class in general.

WINFRED T. DENISON. LL.B. Harvard, 1900. Admitted to New York bar 1900. Practising in office of Stetson, Jennings & Russell, New York City. Permanent address, 15 Broad street, New York City. Harvard Club, New York Bar Association, City Club. Unmarried, etc.

WILLIAM J. DE NORMANDIE. 45 Lambert avenue, Roxbury. Is farming at Lincoln, Mass.

GEORGE STRONG DERBY. 387 Marlborough street. Served as surgical house officer M.G.H., finishing July 31, 1901. Married to Miss Mary Brewster Brown, of Portland, Me., Aug. 5, 1901. Sailed for Europe August 31, and studied the eye for two years, spending the bulk of time in Freiburg, in Baden, and Vienna. Returned Oct. 1, 1903, started in practice, appointments at Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary, Carney Hospital, St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Parental School, West Roxbury; member of Massachusetts Medical Society, Deutsche Ophthalmologische Gesellschaft. Publications: six in number, all unimportant. Club membership: Tennis and Racquet Club, Union Boat Club.

ROGER DERBY. Riverbank court, Cambridge. I have been in the employ of the B. & M. R.R. (freight department) since Nov. 16, 1900, and at the present time I am the tracing clerk of our No. 10 house westbound fast freight.

ENOCH JACKSON DEWIRE. 84 Brunswick street, Roxbury. 1897, June 2, married Gertrude Whitten, of Roxbury; 1898, July 27, daughter, Marjorie, was born; 1902, December 27, son, Chester Whitten, was born; life member of the Harvard Union; member St. Paul's Lodge of Freemasons; salesman with Winch Bros. Company, wholesale shoes.

CHARLES DICKINSON. Member of the law firm of Dickinson, Farr & Dickinson, 53 State street, Boston. Permanent address, 1702 Beacon street, Brookline, Mass. Member of the following clubs: University Club, Boston Athletic Association, Harvard Club of New York.

FREDERICK AUGUST DONALDSON. Petersham, Mass. Married in 1901. Have one child. Graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1904.

HARRY G. DORMAN. Syrian Protestant College, Beyrout, Syria. 1900 to 1902, intern at Presbyterian Hospital, New York; 1902, intern at Sloane Maternity Hospital, New York. January, 1903, married Miss Mary Bliss Dale, at Beyrout, Syria. February to May, 1903, spent studying medicine in Paris. Since July, 1903, I have resided in Beyrout, Syria, where I occupy the position of professor of pædiatrics and of physiology in the American Medical School. I have two sons, Gerald Dale Dorman, born Nov. 12, 1903, and Harry Gaylord Dorman, Jr., born Jan. 11, 1906. My permanent American address is Upper Montclair, N.J.

CLARENCE W. DORSEY. U.S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Soils, Washington, D.C. Occupation: Scientist, in charge of alkali land reclamation, Bureau of Soils, U.S. Department of Agriculture. Address: Lenox street, Chevy Chase, Maryland. Personal: married to Florence M. Juilliard, Louisville, Ohio, Dec. 28, 1898. Louis Juilliard Dorsey born Sept. 8, 1901. Since graduation from Harvard record is as follows: 1896–1898 assistant physicist, Maryland Agr. Exp. Station. 1898–1902, scientist, Bureau of Soils. In charge of soil survey. 1902–1903, soil physicist, Bureau of Agriculture, Philippine Islands. 1903–1906, scientist, in charge of alkali land reclamation, Bureau of Soils, U.S. Department of Agriculture. 1904, lecturer on soils, Kentucky State College, Lexington, Ky. Many published bulletins and reports describing results of soil investigations. Member Geological Society of Washington American Forestry Association.

ROGERS DOW. 26 West Cedar street, Boston. Business address at 15 State street, Boston. Still unmarried. Practising law alone, but am associated in offices with A. E. Burr, '91, A. A. Highlands, '95, Thomas A. Mullen, '87, Albert Garceau, Law School '98.

WILLIAM HILL DRAPER. 54 Barnard avenue, Watertown, Mass. Married, Oct. 6, 1904, Bessie Sarah Foster, of Watertown.

FREDERIC COLE DUDLEY. 113 Longfellow street, Woodfords, Me. There is nothing especially new to say in my case. I am still living in Portland, Me. (Woodfords P.O.), and am engaged in the lumber business. I have three children, two girls and a boy. No other honors or disasters to report.

ROBERTSON DUFF. 81 Esplanade, Quebec, Canada.

FRANCIS DUFFIELD. 198 Van Dyke avenue, Detroit, Mich. In 1896 I left Cambridge and entered the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York City, from where I graduated in 1900. Was an extern at Bellevue Hospital, New York, for one year. In 1901 I started the practice of medicine in Detroit at my present address. I am a visiting physician to the Woman's Hospital and Infant's Home. I married Miss Helen Muir, of Detroit, in the fall of 1900, and have two girls — one four years old and one two.

CHARLES HUNTER DUNN. Permanent address at present, 23 Marlborough street, Boston. Expect to move shortly to 220 Marlborough street, probably about July 1. Graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1900. Medical house officer at the Massachusetts General Hospital from Feb. 1, 1900, to Aug. 1, 1901. Studied in Vienna from November, 1901, to August, 1902. Medical house officer at the Children's Hospital from Jan. 1, 1903, to July 1, 1903. In 1903 was appointed assistant in pædiatrics in the Harvard Medical School, and assistant physician to the Children's Hospital, and to the Thomas Morgan Rotch, Jr., Memorial Hospital for Infants. Practising in Boston.

HERBERT WILBOUR DUTCH. Muskegon, Michigan. In the fall of 1900 I returned from Hallowell, Me., where I was principal of high school, to Winchester, Mass., to assume the submastership of the school in which I had been prepared for Harvard. Since it was my home town, I took an active part in its educational life, gave several lectures upon foreign travel and topics; was clerk of the Unitarian Society, and prominent in its social life. In 1902 I was granted a year's leave of absence for study and travel, and spent fifteen months abroad. I studied six months at Bonn University, Bonn, Germany; and traveled extensively in England, France, Germany, Russia, Italy, Switzerland, Greece, and Asia Minor, often visiting the schools and studying school problems. While in Asia Minor I was taken captive by the Turks, who thought me an army spy, but was soon released through the intervention of our consular agent. An Arabian stallion threw me to the bottom of the Skamander river near Troy, while a party of us, under Dr. Dörpfeld, were exploring the sources of that river. Since then I have led a quiet and peaceful life. In 1903 I returned to Winchester and continued as submaster until 1904, when I accepted the principalship of a large school here in Muskegon. I now have charge of the Muskegon High and Hackley Manual Training School, which has an enrollment of six hundred students and a corps of thirty-five teachers. As principal I do no teaching, only executive work and supervision. On June 26, 1904, I was married to Ruth T. Lawrance, daughter of the Rev. William I. Lawrance of Winchester. I have accepted a reelection to my present position, and we shall probably live in Muskegon another year. During my study and travel abroad I prepared several lectures: two upon Russian life and education; two upon Grecian Art, and particularly Olympia and Delphi; and one upon Tennyson's "Princess." I have delivered the lectures several times, and often spoken at conferences of teachers and private clubs.

WILLIAM P. DUTTON. In September, 1901, I was married to Blanche W. Blue, of Montpelier, Ohio. In 1903 I moved to Winnipeg, Manitoba, to look after investments in lands and lumber on the Canadian side of the line, where I am still living. I am a director and treasurer of the Elk Lumber Company, which has mills in British Columbia with selling office in Winnipeg; treasurer and managing director of the Red Deer Lumber Company with headquarters in Winnipeg and extensive mills in the province of Saskatchewan; secretary of the North West Casket Company, casket manufacturers in Winnipeg, and am at present organizing a new lumber company which proposes manufacturing in the Prince Albert district of Saskatchewan. I have one child, Everell Fletcher Dutton, born Feb. 26, 1904.

ELBERT H. DWINELL. 809 North Nevada avenue, Colorado Springs, Col. In the fall of 1900 I went to Kansas City, Mo., where I became associated with C. J. Hubbard, '83, in the real estate mortgage and investment business. In the spring of 1904 my health broke down and the doctor ordered me to give up business and go farther west. Since then I have sojourned in Colorado, Wyoming, Arizona, and California, and have engaged in no business. Am in fairly good condition now, and shall probably soon be looking for a job; but I have a wretched apprehension that the doctor may forbid my going back for the decennial. I am neither married nor engaged, and very much regret that I have nothing of interest to '96 to report. Mail sent to Montpelier, Vt., will be forwarded to me.

LYMAN TIFFANY DYER. 25 Broad street, New York City. On leaving college I went with N. W. Harris & Co., New York City, where I staid until 1900, taking off six months to go to Porto Rico as a private in Troop A, U.S.V., in 1898; 1900 I traveled in the east for pleasure; 1904 I formed a partnership with Harden L. Crawford,

P., '95, under the firm name of H. L. Crawford & Co., to do a banking and bond business at 25 Broad street, New York City. Married in April, 1905, Miss Mary Hopeton Drake, of New York, and now reside at 147 East 62d street, New York City.

ARTHUR DYRENFORTH. 914 Marquette building, Chicago. I have just been practising law, have kept out of politics and debt, and am not married. That's all there is to a complete account of my life since 1900. My down town address is 914 Marquette building, and my home address, 301 Schiller street, Chicago.

JOSEPH J. EATON. Manila, P.I., Box 589. June, 1901, married. Dec. 1, 1902, Joseph J. Eaton, Jr., born. Feb. 1, 1905, superintendent Philippine School of Arts and Trades, Manila, P.I.

HAROLD EDWARDS. Married at Dunham, P.Q., to Lucy Frances Baker, on Feb. 21, 1906. Now with Boston & Northern Street Railway and Old Colony Street Railway at 84 State street, Boston, Mass.

HAVEN EMERSON. 120 East 62d street, New York City. I was married on June 15, 1901, to Miss Grace Parrish, at Radnor, Pa. After five months of study in France and Germany I began to practise medicine in New York. In October, 1902, I was appointed assistant demonstrator of physiology, which position I held at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University until 1904, since which time I have been appointed demonstrator. For three years I have been a Fellow of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, and for one year Fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine. At present in addition I am a member of the Society for Experimental Medicine and Biology, the Harvey Society, and the Society of Practical Medicine. The few publications I have been guilty of are of a purely professional character: "Studies upon the Capsule of the Kidney," "Red-leg, an Epidemic Disease among Frogs," and "Revision of Budgett's Essentials of Physiology." I have a daughter aged three years, and a son aged nineteen months. Aside from teaching and practising medicine, I am not involved in anything of general interest.

CHARLES M. EVELETH. 44 Irving place, New York City. Since 1900 I have been with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in several different capacities. I am now engaged in engineering work for that company in New York.

JOHN CUMMINGS FAIRCHILD. 8 Exchange place, Boston, Mass. I have been for something over three years in the stock brokerage business in the firm of Sargent & Fairchild. My family consists of a girl and a boy aged seven and five respectively. Otherwise I am very well.

CLARENCE B. FARRAR. Sheppard-Pratt Hospital, Baltimore. Same name as before, same address, same religion, same trade. The story since 1900 is soon told. From 1900-1902 I served as clinical assistant at the above named hospital, which same is for mental diseases, and in the neurologic department of the Johns Hopkins University. Then came two years' leave of absence abroad, the major part of which passed at the University of Heidelberg (psychiatry, psychology, neurohistology, and pathology), with a few months at other clinics, chiefly at Nancy and Paris. Coming back to the hospital in the autumn 1904, I was made assistant physician and director of the laboratory, gave a couple courses in the psychiatric and psychologic departments at the Hopkins, and am one of the research assistants of the Carnegie Institution. Voilà tout! Is that concise enough for English 12? There are no marriages, deaths, or births to report, beyond an occasional tract in the psychiatric journals — these labors all easy. No bahnbrecheude Arbeit.

WALDO FARRAR. 68 Essex street, Boston. Am connected with the Cassella Color Company as salesman, dyestuffs. Married Frances Josephine White Oct. 15, 1904.

EDWARD PICKERING FAY. Riverbank court, Cambridge, Mass. In the spring of 1903 I removed from Springfield, Mass.; to Boston, where I have since continued the practice of law. Was married Sept. 17, 1903, to Edith Goodenow at West Newton, Mass.

SIDNEY BRADSHAW FAY. Hanover, N.H. After teaching European history a couple of years at Harvard and Radcliffe, I left Cambridge in 1903 to accept an assistant professorship in history here at Dartmouth. Last summer I gave a course in the Harvard Summer School. On Aug. 17, 1904, I was married to Miss Sarah Proctor, of Hanover, N.H., and have a small daughter, Dorothy Adams Fay.

BROOKS FAXON. My home address is Newton Centre, Mass., business address, 110 State street, Boston. I have charge of the New England interests of the Wagner Electric Manufacturing Company of St. Louis, Mo., with headquarters at above address.

RICHARD E. FITZGERALD. Ogdensburg, N.Y. Admitted to bar '95; twice elected recorder of Ogdensburg; now practising law in Ogdensburg; married Bessie Aldura Goodno. Four children, Elizabeth, Arthur Cushman, John, and Sarah Louise.

CHARLES RUSSELL FLEISCHMANN. 141 Broadway, New York City. Still practises law at the above address, as partner in the firm of Lee & Fleischmann. On Jan. 17, 1905, married Leila Newcombe at St. Stephen's Church, New York City.

GROSVENOR FOLSOM. 207 Walker building, Seattle, Wash. I am still the Seattle representative of the Puget Mill Company. Oct. 1, 1901, I was married to Miss Letitia R. Griffiths, of Lexington, Mass. On April 16, 1905, a daughter was born. I am a member of the Golf, Tennis, and Firloch Clubs.

F. MURRAY FORBES. Wellesley, Mass. Since 1900 I have been in the real estate business in Boston, in 1903 forming the firm of Cabot, Cabot & Forbes. Was married in 1903. Have one son.

ALEXANDER FORSYTH. 219 South Sixth street, Victor, Col. Occupation, mining and mechanical engineering. Married, Aug. 8, 1902, to Eva Frances Sargent, of Nashua, N.H.

RECTOR KERR FOX. 27 West 44th street, New York City. Married in 1901 to Hilda Carolyn Seccomb, of New York, and have two children, Virginia and R. K., Jr. After seven years in the publishing business with R. H. Russell, incorporated in 1903 with Pitts Duffield, '92, — Fox, Duffield & Co, publishers, New York.

ROBERT T. FRANK. 6 East 81st street, New York. In 1900 I was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons Columbia University with the degrees of M.D. and A.M. Since 1904 I have been engaged in the practice of medicine.

LOUIS A. FREEDMAN. 11 Buena Vista park, North Cambridge, Mass. That stretch of my life extending from the year 1900 until now includes these facts of class-historical importance: 1900–1902, studying history of philosophy, art, history, and political economy at Strasburg, Germany, and during the generous vacation periods traveling in the Savoy mountains once, in Holland and Belgium another time. May, 1902, took my Ph.D. degree; title of dissertation: Substanz und Causalität bei Berkeley. Academic year, 1902-1903, carrying on psychological research work at Harvard and giving a course as licensed lecturer on modern German æsthetic. Contrary to most philosophers I recognized not the vanity of life but the vanity of philosophy, and October, 1903-March, 1904, engaged in practical philanthropy in New York City. Contrary to most professional philanthropists, recognizing the unphilanthropic character of the profession, and, better still, throwing it over as a result of this recognition, I entered into business life in May, 1904. There I am still. Praise Mammon from whom, in America, all blessings flow! I was married in June, 1904. I have not yet any children.

S. P. FREELING. Shawnee, Okla. In November, 1902, I was elected to the office of county attorney of Pottawatomie County, Oklahoma Territory, and was reelected in November, 1904, my present term expiring Jan. 1, 1907. I have no marriages, birth, or deaths to record.

WILLIAM C. FRENCH. 166 Magazine street, Cambridge, Mass. I was married to Ethel C. Dorr, of Cambridge, Mass., June 2, 1902. Shortly after I became a resident of the town and am still living there. A daughter was born July 20, 1903, Olivia French. For the past few years I have been associated with Mr. J. M. Huber, having a Boston office at 133 Pearl street.

BROOKS FROTHINGHAM. 87 Milk street, Boston, Mass. June 18, 1902, was married to Miss Grace A. Clark of New York. June 1, 1905, became partner in the firm of Fehmer & Page, architects, 87 Milk street, Boston.

EDGAR VIETOR FROTHINGHAM. 331 West 83d street, New York City. I have been practising law independently since October, 1902. My office is in the Mutual Life building. I have two children: Richard Lord Frothingham, born March, 1902, and Donald Frothingham, born January, 1905.

CHARLES SUMNER FULLER. Residence, 12 St. Paul street, Cambridge. Business, 31 Lewis wharf, Boston. In the latter part of 1903 I withdrew from H. D. Foss & Co. with which house I had been connected five years, and in February, 1904, was formed the Fuller Greene Company, of which I became president and treasurer. We are manufacturers of high-grade chocolate confectionery, our factory, etc., being located at 31 Lewis wharf, Boston, and our present field of operation includes the eastern and middle-western States. June 19, 1901, I married Anna Lillian Hayes, at Dover, N.H. Eleanor Hayes Fuller was born Sept. 11, 1902, at Cambridge. My father, Robert O. Fuller, died in Cambridge, March 9, 1903. I have membership in the Economy Club, the New England Confectioners' Club, and the Massachusetts Club.

HENRY HOLTON FULLER. Lancaster, Mass. Two children, Henry H., Jr., born Sept. 16, 1901, Anna Hayden, born Oct. 6, 1902. Member School and Water Boards, Lancaster. Practising law with Hon. Herbert Parker, State Mutual building, Worcester, Mass. Am a member of the Quinsigamond Boat Club, Worcester.

JOHN ALLYNE GADE. 281 Fourth avenue, New York City. On Jan. 1, 1902, I entered into partnership with Mortimer Foster and Robert D. Graham for the practice of architecture, under the firm name of Foster, Gade & Graham. My business has been my chief interest and has kept me busy pretty nearly twelve hours a day for the last three years. Since our sexennial I have taken a few vacations, either going to my home in Norway or to France and Italy, for loafing and sketching. I derive considerable pleasure from writing articles for magazines bearing upon art or architecture.

OSCAR CHARLES GALLAGHER. Master in English High School, Boston. Married, 1899, Miss Nora Mower, of Calais, Vt. Two children, one boy, one girl.

GEORGE B. GAVIN. Assistant day editor of Boston Globe. Single.

FRANK S. GILKEY. 19 Emerson street, Medford, Mass. I am still in the Medford High School, where, in February, 1903, I was appointed grade-master. I had previously refused a call to the submastership of the Quincy High School, because I expected this appointment in Medford. Last October, owing to an attractive opening in the Cambridge Latin School, I was appointed vice principal in Medford. My chief interest outside of school work is in music, partly with an orchestra of sixteen high school pupils, who have become quite proficient.

HOWARD FRANK GILLETTE. 2908 Michigan avenue, Chicago. Have been representing W. A. Gay & Co., of Boston, here for past two years. Am not yet married.

CHARLES BOWLES GLENN. Birmingham, Ala. Principal of city schools. Married Elizabeth Roberts Douglass June 25, 1902. President of Alabama Educational Association, 1904.

CHARLES FREDERICK GODDARD. 105, rue Lafayette, Paris. There is little to add to my last report, my life having been strictly a business one and consequently uneventful. In November, 1902, I entered the employ of the United Shoe Machinery Company, 205 Lincoln street, Boston. In July, 1903, I was sent to Paris to enter the United Shoe Machinery Company de France, of which company I was elected director in June, 1904.

MADISON G. GONTERMAN. 290 Broadway, New York City. Law department R. G. Dun & Co.

ALFRED H. GOULD. 48 Beacon street, Boston. Is practising medicine at above address.

WILLIAM GOODMAN. 19 Ortiz building, Cincinnati, Ohio. Memo. of my doings since 1896 is as follows : December, 1896, employed as draftsman, Laidlaw-Dunn Gordon Company, Cincinnati; June, 1898, commissioned assistant engineer (rel. rank of Ensign) U.S. Navy; November, 1898, discharged from above commission; January, 1899, employed as draftsman in office of E. D. Leavitt, Cambridge, Mass.; April, 1899, employed as assistant engineer, Laidlaw-Dunn Gordon Company, Cincinnati; October, 1901, employed as chief engineer, L. D. G. Co.; October, 1902, married at Coronado, Cal., to Miss Mary Wilber Healey of Cincinnati; June, 1905, acting manager, Laidlaw-Dunn Gordon Company.

ALFRED M. GRAHAM. 42 Court street, Boston. Is practising law at above address.

MILTON DANIEL GRANT. Born at Hopewell, Nova Scotia, Oct. 31, 1873. Received primary education at New Glasgow High School and at Pictou Academy. Entered Dalhousie University, year 1890, receiving Arts Degree 1894. Graduate of the Nova Scotia Provincial Normal School and holder of teacher's license of academic grade for the Province. For two years (1898-1900) assistant headmaster of the New Glasgow High School. Appointed 1900 to the actuarial stall of the Government Insurance Department of Canada. In May, 1902, married Janet, daughter of the late Jeffery McColl. Received in 1904 the degree of Fellow of the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, for proficiency in actuarial science. Present position, assistant actuary, Government Insurance Department, Ottawa, Canada.

WILLIAM COOK GRAY. 716 Broadway, Fall River, Mass. The second number of "The Story of '96" left me telegraph editor of the Fall River Herald. In the fall of 1902, impelled by a divine discontent, I decided to study law and entered the Harvard Law School. A deal of trouble with my eye made the work come hard, but I got my degree cum laude in June of this year. In the third year I was one of the editors of the Harvard Law Review. I am now practising in the office of H. A. Dubuque, Esq., 105-107 Granite block, Fall River. Still a bachelor.

JEROME DAVIS GREENE. Office, 5 University Hall, Cambridge; house, 60 Shepard street, Cambridge. Married Miss May Tevis of Haverford, Pa., April 28, 1900. In July, 1901, I left the University Press to enter the service of Harvard University as secretary to the president, the office I still hold. A son, Jerome Crosby Greene, was born in Cambridge June 14, 1902. Have written occasional newspaper articles on Harvard topics.

MELVIN GREEN. Winchester, Va. Graduated from Harvard Law School in '99. Practised in New York, office of R. Burnham Moffat. After a year forced to quit on account of health. Time since spent largely in travel. Married Nov. 22, 1900, to Louisa Rodgers Meigs.

RUSSELL T. GREENE, JR. 21 Marsemere place, Yonkers, N.Y. Married Winifred Williams, Jamaica Plain, Mass., June 22, 1899. Children: Mary Elizabeth, born June 2, 1900; Eleanor, born June 5, 1902; Hamilton Williams, born May 19, 1904. Taught at English High School, Cambridge, Mass., from September, 1897, to July, 1904; and at High School of Commerce, New York City, since September, 1904.

SAMUEL EARLE GREENE. 111 Bartlett avenue, Pittsfield, Mass, 1900-1902, General Electric Company, Pittsburg, Pa.; 1902-1905, Allegheny County Light Company, Pittsburg, Pa.; 1905 to date, Stanley G. I. Electric Manufacturing Company, Pittsfield, Mass.

WILLIAM GREENOUGH. Room 10, Grand Central Station, New York City, unmarried. Since leaving the Law School have practised law in this city until August, 1904, in the office of Strong & Cadwalader. Since that time by myself. Am now employed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, in its legal department, being attorney for the company in the State of New York.

LEVI H. GREENWOOD. Gardner, Mass. States he has nothing especial to record.

CLIFFORD STIMPSON GREGG. 16 East 44th street, New York City. I was graduated in '96, then took three years' study at the Cambridge Episcopal School and sailed for Europe and the Orient for three years of travel and study. Jan. 1, 1903, I became curate at the Church of the Ascension, Boston, and accepted a call as curate to St. Bartholomew's Church, New York City, April 1, 1904. Unmarried. Member of Harvard Club.

HENRY STURGIS GREW, 2d. 254 Marlborough street, Boston. After graduation I traveled in Europe for three months. In April, 1897, entered the banking office of Estabrook & Co., Boston, with whom I remained three years and a half. In November, 1900, owing to ill health, was obliged to give up work for fifteen months, part of which was spent in Europe. At the end of that time I secured a position with the City Trust Company, an institution just opening for business, where I served as assistant treasurer until October, 1905, resigning on that date to become president of the National Union Bank of Boston. I married on Nov. 17, 1897, Ethel Gertrude Hooper, and have two children, Agnes Hooper, born November, 1898, and Henry Sturgis, born March, 1901.

FRANK W. GRIFFIN. 408 Rialto building, San Francisco, Cal. Married Jan. 9, 1901, to Lilian Follis of San Francisco. Constance Griffin born Feb. 13, 1905. President Western Engineering and Construction, June, 1902. Now constructing our twenty-eighth large Placer Gold Dredge. Vice-president American Gold Dredging Company, Oroville, Cal. Clubs: University Club, Bohemian Club, San Francisco. Most important publication: "The Gold Dredging Industry," November, 1903.

EMANUEL M. GROSSMAN. 528 Rialto building, St. Louis, Mo. Since the last edition of my autobiography life has been much more interesting and worth while. Though I began the practice of law among strangers, my business has steadily improved, in quality as well as in quantity; and to-day I am glad to be able to report that Fortune smiles as steadfastly and as sincerely as the St. Louis summer sun. About two years ago the Mayor of this city appointed me to the Board of Managers of the St. Louis House of Refuge, and that body immediately elected me its secretary. This position yielded no pecuniary reward, but gave a generous opportunity for active service. Last April, at our municipal elections, I was removed from that position by election to the St. Louis Board of Education, a position of equivalent financial profit, but perhaps of greater chance for agreeable work. There is nothing else that needs advertising, except, perhaps, that I am still unmarried.

LEE HAGER. Hotel Brazos, Houston, Texas. Have been engaged in the oil business for the past four years.

LEE HAGERMAN. 3654 Pine street, St. Louis, Mo. I am at present practising law in my own home at 602 Wainwright building in this city. Am still unmarried.

ARTHUR H. HAHLO. 358 Fifth avenue, New York City. Since 1900 have continued in the book and picture business, which I founded on leaving college. Married, April 28, 1904, to May Stern, of New York.

FREDERICK HALE. Portland, Me. Law firm Verrill, Hale & Booth. Appointed Lieutenant-Colonel on staff of Governor of Maine. 1900, Chairman Portland Republican City Committee; 1903-1904-1905, member of the Maine Legislature; 1905, member Cumberland Club, Portland; member Metropolitan Club, Washington, Tennis and Racquet Club, Boston; Racquet and Tennis Club, New York.

ARTHUR W. HALL. Upland road, Quincy, Mass. In 1902 I organized the Arthur W. Hall Scientific Company, purchasing the good will and succeeding to the business of the Ziegler Electric Company. I am president and treasurer of the company. I have two children, one born in 1899 and one in 1905. Both are girls. I have had a reasonable amount of prosperity and have enjoyed the very best of health since graduation ten years ago.

JOHN GALENTINE HALL. 60 Orchard street, North Cambridge, Mass. Married May 9, 1900. 1901-1902, clerk Harvard Co-op. Winter of 1903-1904, automobile business. 1904-1905, doing special work in botany at Harvard College and assistant in botany 1. Summer of 1905, teacher of science at Kansas State Normal School, Manual Training Auxiliary at Pittsburg, Kan. I have been appointed assistant in botany 3 at Harvard for the year 1905-6. In March, 1902, The Botanical Gazette published an article of mine (original work) entitled "An Embryological Study of Limnocharis Emarginata."

WALTER ATWOOD HALL. General Electric Company, West Lynn, Mass. My life since the issue of our last report has been a natural development of the period immediately preceding. Continuing in the employ of the General Electric Company, I have passed through the successive positions in the transformer engineering department leading up to that of engineer in charge, which I now hold. The only remaining event of note in my professional career is my admission to membership in the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. My birthday, Jan. 7, 1903, was celebrated by my marriage at Cambridge to Lucile Carol Reynolds, Wellesley, '99. Available opportunities for continued success assure me that we are to make Lynn our permanent home, a prospect particularly pleasing in that I am enabled thereby to keep in touch with our beloved Harvard by attending the events. I have acquired a building lot by the ocean in the most desirable section of the city and, as soon as the State progresses somewhat further with the construction of the boulevard at that point, will erect thereon a house where Harvard men will find a warm welcome.

ROBERT H. HALLOWELL. Medford, Mass. On Oct. 7, 1902, I married Rebecca B. Jackson, and after a short trip through Europe settled at 845 Boylston street. In May, 1904, removed to Medford and am now living there. I have two sons, Robert H. Hallowell, Jr., born August, 1903, and Samuel H. Hallowell, born May, 1905.

ROSCOE J. HAM. Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Me. My curriculum vitæ since June, 1896, is as follows: 1896-99, studied at Harvard and Berlin; 1899-1901, instructor in French, Cascadilla School, Ithaca, N.Y.; 1901-1903, instructor in modern languages, Bowdoin College; 1903-1906, assistant professor in modern languages, Bowdoin College. Sept. 5, 1901, married Mary Helena Cowell of Boston. One son, Edward Billings Ham, born Nov. 7, 1902.

PAUL MASCARENE HAMLEN. 729 Boylston street, Boston. Married, Dec. 7, 1901, Agnes Dorothy Devens; a daughter, Elizabeth, born Aug. 21, 1903. As before, in the real estate business.

ORLANDO D. HAMMOND. Have lived in Memphis, Tenn., since graduation at Harvard Law School where I was engaged in the practice of law. Moved to New York in December, 1905. Am residing at Cathedral Court, 40 Morningside Drive, West, New York, N.Y. Married Feb. 16, 1901, in Philadelphia, to Lillian Kirk McDowell, of Mississippi. Have one child, Martha Bonner, born Aug. 1, 1903.

ALEXANDER R. HANN. From 1900 to November, 1904, I lived in Denton, Texas, and was assistant cashier of Ex. Nat. Bk. at that place. Since then I have lived in Dallas, Texas, present address, and have been engaged in the real estate business. I was married Dec. 10, 1902. My permanent address is 455 Gaston avenue, Dallas, Texas.

HEMAN ANDREW HARDING. Chatham, Mass. 1900, Chairman of Selectmen, Assessors, and Overseers of Poor, Chatham, Mass. ; manager of Hotel Matterquasom. 1903, Representative in General Court of Massachusetts, Second Barnstable District, Ways and Means Committee. 1904, Representative in General Court of Massachusetts, Second Barnstable District, Ways and Means Committee. 1905, Senate, Ways and Means, Harbor and Public Lands, Fisheries and Game, and Constitutional Amendments. I had hard fights in 1904 and 1905. Won, 1904, 956 to 394. Won, 1905, 2,500 to 1,800, with four in the field.

KENNETH W. HARDON. 60 State street, Boston. With Walker Oakley Company, tanners, Chicago and Boston until 1897, later, manager for above and allied concerns associated under name of Die Amerikanische Compagnie Actieu Gesellschaft (The American Company Incorporated), leather importers with offices at Frankfurt, a/m., Germany, until 1900. Now with Hamlin, Thompson & Sheldon, bankers, 60 State street, Boston, in bond department.

JAMES RUSSELL HARRIS, JR. Art Club, Philadelphia. When last heard from was traveling abroad.

JAMES HARRISON. 1055 Century building, 4429 Berlin avenue, St. Louis, Mo. Assistant chief engineer Kinlock Telephone Company. Married Nov. 26, 1903, to Miss M. Persis Jones.

CHARLES F. HATTON. 358 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown, Mass. I am employed as engineer in the street laying-out department, city of Boston. Single.

WILLIAM HAUCK. 742 St. Nicholas avenue, New York City. Is assistant engineer of the New York City Aqueduct Commission and is stationed at Jerome Park Reservoir.

JOHN JOSEPH HAYES. Common street, Dedham, Mass. The first seven years after college I spent in the service of the Boston & Maine Railroad in its various departments, and as the years went on I found that the remuneration did not appear to me commensurate with the time and labor expended, or perhaps my ideas of the proper advancement of the young man to-day were not being realized, so I forsook the profession. I then went into the real estate and insurance business, forming a partnership under the name of Hayes & Welch, with W. M. Welch, '02, having office at 112 Water street, Boston. I have seen the single men of the class growing fewer each year, but am still with them.

RICHARD HAYTER. 8 and 9 Colonial block, Seattle, Wash. The last report was written in London; this in Seattle. They are separated by nearly seven thousand miles; and that geographical difference is a fair expression of the change in my plans. The first five years after commencement day I spent in philanthropic work in New York and research in England. Now I am scrambling for wealth in the extreme northwestern corner of the United States. I came to Puget Sound primarily to join E. Bartlett Webster (temp., '96) in a salmon fisheries scheme. When the bottom fell out, I arrived in Seattle, unknown — and broke. I soon got a chance, however, to practise English 22 on the Seattle Daily Times, landing shortly the real estate editor's desk. Daily newspaper grind gave me an insight into conditions, and the men who make them. Then I cast loose into the real estate business. That is the shortest road to wealth in Seattle, for a corner-lot here grows into money faster than a gold mine in Alaska — and with less work. We have greater chances than even Chicago offered "after the fire;" and there are five '96 men here to grab the opportunities as they whirl around. Seattle has doubled its population in five years, and thanks to the new transcontinental roads now breaking in, all previous records will be distanced before the next class report falls due. Of course I know the rock-brand conservatism of New England will smile at this "western" enthusiasm. But do you realize that the exports and imports of Puget Sound already outrank those of Boston? But Seattle has other than mere money-making advantages, especially to those who are appreciative of Nature's wonders. From here to Skagwan, Alaska — a distance of one thousand miles — one can safely cruise in the smallest launch, the long arms of the Pacific ocean being perfectly protected by innumerable beautiful islands overshadowed by the snow-capped peaks of the grandest mountain range in the world. This country will undoubtedly be the great playground of America when its beauties are known. Its summer climate excels that of Mount Desert; and sport with gun and rod abounds. And if there is anything in the environment theory, expounded in the Phil. and Econ. courses that I wasted four years on, Puget Sound will some day be the æsthetic centre of the New World. I believe that even the rapid money-maker of to-day will beget children who will have such a keen sense of the beautiful that it will sooner or later find expression in the arts. This is a long report, but I must find space to tell you that we don't carry "44's" in a cartridge belt; that there are no Indians around except a few leftover Siwashes who peddle fish and baskets; that we live in houses and do business in "sky-scrappers;" that we have clubs, theatres, and hotels (there are one hundred and seventy-five Harvard men in and around Seattle); that we wear real clothes — some of them made in London and New York; that there are no icebergs nearer than Newfoundland, thanks to the warm Japan current; that we have yearly Yale-Harvard games like other enlightened graduates; that we actually have the "only" western overseer, who brings to us the latest news of the university; that we have electric lights and street cars (of course owned by a Boston corporation); and that (if you are planning a trip to the Orient) we have the largest and most comfortable steamers afloat sailing from Seattle.

PEYTON RANDOLPH HAZARD. Newport, R.I. I believe it might be "of interest to the rest of the class" to learn of my marriage, my birth, and perhaps of my death (to use the order of your circular) but, as only the second of these events has as yet transpired, I cannot with a clear conscience record the others. Since 1900 I have been living entirely from the fruits of other men's labor. My main occupation has been to watch faithfully the effect of such a course upon myself, and I cannot say that it has been harmful. It has not been productive of fame or distinction, it is true, if such things, after all, are in themselves worth striving for, but it has left open wide to others the field of labor, which otherwise I might have monopolized. It might further be of interest to the class to learn that I have been chosen vice-secretary of the league for furthering the preservation of life in our city streets and commander of the order of knight errants with full power to conclude and enforce agreements, etc., but as these offices are still withheld from me by some power beyond my control I shall not as yet signify my acceptance of the same.

STEVENS HECKSCHER. 1617 Land Title building, Philadelphia, Pa. Since 1900 have been practising law in Philadelphia and in 1904 formed the firm of Duane, Morris, Heckscher & Roberts at above address. In July, 1902, married Henrietta Armitt Brown. Two children, Lucretia Stevens and Henry Armitt. The latter died in February, 1905, aged four months. A member of the Philadelphia and Markham Clubs.

WINSLOW HOBART HERSCHEL. Providence, R.I. From 1896 to 1901, assistant engineer East Jersey Water Company, at Montclair, N.J.; 1901 to 1903 in office of Clemens Herschel, C.E., New York City; for nine months in 1903 in charge of survey party for Commission on Additional Water Supply, New York; February, 1904, to November, 1905, at works of Escher Wyss & Co., Zurich, Switzerland, investigating hydraulic and steam turbines, at first in employ of Allis-Chalmers Company and later in that of Providence Engineering Works, with which latter company he remains.

JAMES HEWINS, JR. Medfield, Mass. I was married, Oct. 9, 1901, to Anna M. Johansen, a native of Denmark, but a citizen of this country for some years. We have two sons, James Hewins, 3d, born Aug. 28, 1902, and Alfred Hewins, born Oct. 24, 1904. Our married life has been uneventful, but very happy. Since I graduated I have been in the wool business with the firm of Salter Bros. & Co., 210 Summer street, Boston, Mass., with the exception of one year, during which I tutored a young man for the Harvard entrance examinations.

ALFRED H. HILDRETH. 14 Garden street, Cambridge, Mass. I am still practising patent law at 53 State street, Boston, in the office of Phillips, Van Everen & Fish, where I have been located ever since leaving the Law School in 1899. I am a member of the Oakley Country Club, but spend most of my spare time automobiling, to say nothing of all my spare cash and some that is not spare. On June 6, 1905, I married Miss Alice S. Russell, of Winchester, Mass.

LORING TOWNSEND HILDRETH. 96 Broadway, New York City. Is practising law at above address.

FRANK C. HINKLEY. 112 Broadway, Bangor, Me. Is at present located in New York City. Address unknown. Unmarried.

WILLIAM HITZ. 1317 F street, N.W., Washington, D.C. I am practising law in Washington and doing moderately well. In 1900 I was married to Esther Porter of Baltimore, and have one child, a boy.

JOHN ELLIS HOFFMAN. Racquet and Tennis Club, 27 West 43d street, New York. Have lived since 1900 principally in Europe, especially in Paris. Have not been in any business. Was divorced in 1904.

JOHN SWIFT HOLBROOK. 156 Fifth avenue. From December, 1898, to Nov. 15, 1900, I was an attaché of the United States Government at the Paris Exposition of 1900, Dept. of Parks and Gardens; 1900, Secretary U.S. Delegation International Congress of Botany. Left Paris November, 1900, traveled in Italy, Germany, France, and Egypt till July, 1901. Spent the summer of 1901 in England. Returned to America in September, 1901, and started practice as a landscape architect (firm Brinley & Holbrook, 156 Fifth avenue, N.Y.) Have been in practice continually ever since. Unmarried, no children (that I know of). Business is good. Big work in hand, New York Botanical Gardens. Have done work on over ninety different places since starting. Have made no publications. Member of $\theta\Delta X$ fraternity, University Club, Harvard Club; treasurer of University Glee Club, member of Adirondack League Club, New York Botanical Society, New York Horticultural Society.

ALEXANDER HOLLAND. Kenilworth, Ill. Married. No children. President and treasurer of the Holland Company, treasurer of the United States Flexible Joint Company, Chicago, Ill.

ARTHUR BREWSTER HOLMES. Is practising medicine at Kingston, Mass.

CHARLES N. HOLMES. 5 Howland street, Roxbury, Mass. Is engaged in literary work.

WILLIS BOIT HOLMES. University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill. Permanent address, 39 William street, Cambridge, Mass. Since 1900 I have been engaged in teaching chemistry at the University of Chicago, where I still remain. Nothing unusual has happened to me.

EDWIN B. HOLT. 13 Chauncy street, Cambridge. Nothing so interesting as marriage or death has happened to me. Here is the record: Received degree of Ph.D. at Harvard in 1901; appointed instructor in psychology at Harvard in the same year; am still teaching there.

FREDERICK STREET HOPPIN, JR. 29 Waverly place, New York. After working for a year on the New York Evening Post became assistant editor of Leslies' Monthly Magazine until February, 1905. Since then have been advertising manager for Charles Scribner's Sons, publishers.

RALPH SHELDON HOSMER. Honolulu, Hawaii. From October, 1898, I have been connected with the U.S. Bureau of Forestry. During the summers of 1900 and 1901, in company with Mr. E. S. Bruce, I prepared a forest working plan for Townships 5, 6, 40, and 41, Totten &

Crossfield Purchase, in the Adirondack Forest Preserve—New York. During 1902 I was in charge of forest investigations in Maine, carried on by the bureau in coöperation with the State. In 1903 as chief of forest replacement, of the division of forest extension of the bureau, I was in charge of forest investigations in southern California, made jointly by the State and the bureau. In December, 1903, I was appointed superintendent of forestry for the territory of Hawaii to care for the forest interests of the islands and especially to secure the creation of forest reserves on important water sheds. My more important publications are Bull. No. 30, Bureau of Forestry, entitled "A Forest Working Plan for Township 40," with Mr. E. S. Bruce; a report upon "A Study of the Maine Spruce," in the Report of the Forest Commissioner of Maine for 1902; and a report in the First Annual Report of the Board of Agriculture and Forestry of the Territory of Hawaii. During the winter of 1901-'02, I was assistant in the Yale Forest School, taking at the same time the regular second year course and receiving the degree "Master of Forestry" in June, 1902. I am a member of the "Society of American Foresters," of which organization I was treasurer for three years; a charter member of the University Club, of Honolulu; and a member of the Social Science Club, of Honolulu; also of the Harvard Union, the Washington (D.C.) Harvard Club, and several State forestry associations. I am unmarried.

ALBERT SHAW HOWARD. 40 Arlington street, Lowell, Mass. Married, Sept. 2, 1903, to Edna Maud Hopkins, of Greenfield, N.H. Have one son, Woodbury Fiske Howard, born April 3, 1905. Have been practising law at Lowell since 1899 at 5 Hildreth building.

GEORGE A. HOWE. The LeGrand Quarry Company, Marshalltown, Iowa. I'm still at Marshalltown, Iowa, connected with the LeGrand Quarry Company. It cannot be proved that I have been president of an insurance company nor married, nor guilty of other high crimes and misdemeanors.

WIRT HOWE. 135 Broadway, New York City. Has practised law in New York City.

WILLIAM WESCOTT HOWELL. 1923 Centre street, West Roxbury. Married, Oct. 29, [1900, Marion Lewis. Practised medicine as opportunity presented itself. Appointed visiting physician Massachusetts Infants' Asylum 1903; assistant pathologist Faulkner Hospital, Jamaica Plain, 1903. Medical examiner New York Life Insurance Company and Equitable Life Assurance Society.

EARLE C. HUIDEKOPER. Meadville, Pa. For the last six years I have been ranching on an extensive scale in North Dakota, spending my summers in Dakota and my winters looking after a stock farm near Meadville, Pa. I am still a bachelor.

FREDERIC LOUIS HUIDEKOPER. House address, 1614 Eighteenth street, Washington, D.C.; office, 734 Fifteenth street, Washington, D.C. "He still adheres to a state of 'single cussedness,' and would therefore be subject to the much-mooted tax on bachelors. Although a lawyer, he does not practise his profession, but is kept busily occupied as the treasurer and one of the directors of the United Land Company (of Florida), the successor of the well-known Disston Land Company, whose property comprised an acreage in Florida second only to that of the East Coast System, which is owned by Mr. Henry M. Flagler. His avocations are many. A member of the Hunt Committee and treasurer of the Chevy-Chase Hunt, he frequently acts as Master of Hounds. He is also a member of the Chevy-Chase Horse Show, occasionally judges at other horse shows, and rides in flat races and steeplechases for gentlemen. In August, 1903, he was appointed by the stewards of the Jockey Club (of America) as one of the stewards of the Buffalo Racing Association for its first meeting at Kenilworth park under the auspices of the Jockey Club, and, in November of the same year, he was additionally made one of the stewards of the Washington Jockey Club. Since that time he has continued to serve as one of the stewards at Bennings, and has therefore the honor of being the youngest man who has ever been selected to act as steward at any of the more important race courses under the auspices of the Jockey Club. He still continues his writings on Napoleon, which date from the third forensic in English C during his junior year at Harvard. Several of his articles, after passing a board of regular army officers and being published in the Journal of the Military Service Institution—the leading official magazine of the United States Army—were submitted to, and approved by, the editors of the International Military Series—which include such well-known authorities as the late Col. Arthur G. Wagner and Major John P. Wisser—and have appeared in book form under the title of 'Military Studies.' The author has accordingly the honor of being the youngest man and the only layman who has ever had his work accepted by that important series. The military critics both of America and England have given it an unusually favorable reception, and the War Department has seen fit to place his book in the War College, the General Staff, at the War Department, and West Point. He has, moreover, written an article on the American Cavalrymen for Munsey's Magazine, and has contributed a number of reviews to such publications as the American Historical Review and the Journal of the Military Service Institution. He is a member of the Metropolitan and Chevy-Chase Clubs of Washington, the University and Harvard Clubs of New York, and the Bath Club of London."

GRAHAM P. HUNT. 1508 First National Bank building, Cincinnati, Ohio. As far as business is concerned, I am fixed just as I was in 1900. I am a member of the legal firm of Moulinier, Bettman & Hunt. Bettman, by the way, is a '94 man and '98 Law School. Our offices are now at 1508 First National Bank building. We are doing all right. I dabble some in politics, chiefly fighting the local Republican gang of robbers along with Elliott H. Pendleton, '80. As the gang is at present more numerous than we, I am not in line for anything, in fact have pledged myself not to be a candidate for public office. I was, however, permitted to be a member of the Ohio Legislature in 1900. (This last was before I signed the pledge.) I am a member of various local social organizations and, finally, and most important, I was married on June 20, 1905, to Miss Frances C. Mendenhall and my house, apartment or tent will always be open to any '96 man who happens to wander in the wilds of Hamilton County.

JOHN C. HUNT. 16 Gramercy park, New York City. Have been plugging along at the publishing and printing business since the last report. Married, on April 27, 1905, to Miss Bertha H. Seccomb, of New York. Have seen no business or professional honors coming my way, and being a publisher have written no books. Am a member of the Players' Club of New York.

EDWARD M. HURLEY. My permanent address is Lynn, Mass., but I have not spent much of my time there of late, having spent the year of 1905 in France and am at present staying in New York with my address at the Harvard Club. Since our sexennial nothing eventful has happened to me except that I gave up my place in a bond house, not that I was afraid of being examined by an "investigating committee" suspicious of ill-gotten gains, but just to take a "Wanderjour." As to being married, or backing up the Roosevelt idea, I must plead not guilty, but who can say when it might happen. It comes to some soon and to others late, but if I do get married I can assure you that the marriage will never be annulled on the ground that I am a minor child.

ARTHUR S. HYDE. 290 Commonwealth avenue, Boston. Since 1900 organist and choirmaster of Emmanuel Church, Boston. Director of the Thursday Morning Musical Club Chorus and Portland Choral Art Society.

ALBERT S. INGALLS. I have no news. Am still Supt. of Big Four Railway at Cleveland and live in Bratenahl Village.

ARTHUR INGRAHAM. Oakland, R.I. Since 1900 I have been assistant superintendent of the Oakland Worsted Company, Oakland, R.I. I was married June 5, 1901, to Elizabeth W. White, of Oakland. We have two children, the first a girl, Margaret Hunt Ingraham, born Oct. 5, 1902, the second a boy, born June 8, 1904, and named William White Ingraham.

JOHN H. ISELIN. 27 William street, New York City. I was married on May 30, 1899, to Miss Caroline L. Goodridge, and now have three children, the eldest of whom is five years old and the youngest six months. Prior to my marriage, and before the completion of my law school course, I went to Porto Rico during the Spanish War with Troop A, New York Volunteer Cavalry, of which I was a member. At the termination of the war I returned to New York and in February, 1899, was admitted to the bar and engaged in general practice until January, 1902, when I was appointed an assistant district attorney of New York County under Mr. Jerome. In this position I remained until the first of January, 1906, when I resigned and formed a law partnership with another assistant, Howard S. Gans, '92. Of this firm I am now a member with offices at 27 William street, New York City.

MARION McHENRY JACKSON. 215 Equitable building, Atlanta, Ga. Married, June 1, 1899, to Miss Evalene Parsons. Two children: a boy, Henry Jackson, born March 7, 1900, a girl, Evalene Parsons Jackson, born May 16, 1903. I have practised law in Atlanta since 1897. My firm is at present Jackson & Orme, Nos. 215-217 Equitable building, Atlanta, Ga.

BARTHOLOMEW JACOB. New Rochelle, N.Y. April 18, 1901, married Miss Lydia Mason Brown. Aug. 11, 1902, born, twin boys, Manning and Lawrence. Nov. 21, 1904, born, daughter, Emma Lawrence. Address for notices, Union Club, New York. Am living in New Rochelle, N.Y., and working in Wall street.

EDWARD H. JAMES. 1424 Seventh avenue, West, Seattle, Wash. In 1900 I married Miss Louisa Cushing, of Boston. I have three daughters, Olivia, Mary, Louisa, aged respectively five, three, and one.

LAWRENCE WATERS JENKINS. 7 Williams street, Salem, Mass. Married, Sept. 10, 1901, Miss Arvilla Bray at Salem, Mass. Children: Stephen Waters Jenkins, born Nov. 22, 1902; Dorothy Jenkins, born Jan. 20, 1906. In July, 1901, I was appointed curator of ethnology at the Peabody Museum, Salem, Mass.; March, 1902, adjutant of the Second Corps of Cadets, M.V.M.; and in June, 1905, a director in the Essex Institute.

THORNTON JENKINS. Submaster Malden High School. Married Kate Pineo Chase June, 1901. Children: William Whelden Jenkins, October, 1902; Josephine Jenkins, January, 1904.

R. W. JENNINGS. There is at present on the vaudeville stage a strong man under the name of Treloar. His real name is Jennings, and he is a Harvard graduate of about our time.

ERNEST C. JEWELL. 463 Lowell street, Lawrence, Mass. I am now, and have been for the past eight years, a teacher of mathematics in the Lawrence High School, Lawrence, Mass. In the summer of 1902 I was married to Miss Elizabeth G. McIntyre, a graduate of Boston University. We have two children, a girl and a boy; the girl three years old the coming May, the boy a year old last December.

HENRY SPARKS JOHNSON. Azusa, Cal. Nothing of great interest to relate, but here goes for a few items: Got run down in health working for the Bank of Redemption of Boston so came West and started to grow up with the country. After a few months of out-door life in Santa Fe, New Mexico, came to Los Angeles, Cal., and finally located there accepting a position in the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank. On Oct. 21, 1902, I was married to Miss Gertrude Louise Hall of Newton, Mass., here in Los Angeles. In May, 1904, I was elected assistant cashier of the Azusa Valley Bank and took up my residence in Azusa. During the past year I fell in with several other snap positions, such as city treasurer and secretary of the Azusa Irrigating Company. I was elected a member of the Azusa Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons last March and took my third degree as Master Mason in May.

THOMAS J. JOHNSON. 30 Sumner street, Dorchester, Mass. Is connected with the firm of Thomas J. Johnson & Co., 292 Harrison avenue, Boston, manufacturers of doors, blinds, etc., and is up to the present moment a bachelor.

ELIOT NORRIS JONES. 53 State street, Boston. On the eighteenth of June, 1903, I was married to Theodora, daughter of Dr. Henry P. Bowditch. Since October, 1901, I have been practising law on my own account. I have taken part in the work of publishing information about candidates for public office, at first in the Public Information League, formed by Balch, '96, Palfrey, '96, and others, and later in the Good Government Association, organized in 1903 by business organizations of Boston; and am now one of the executive committee of the latter, as the delegate of the Bar Association.

FREDERIC MARSHALL JONES. 27 Porter street, Somerville, Mass. A.B., '96, S.B., 1900. With Peabody & Stearns, architects, Room 919, 53 State street, Boston, Mass.

JOHN HALL JONES. 320 Broadway, New York City. From 1900 to 1904 I was practising general law, one feature of which was protecting the coupon-premium advertising business of manufacturers from the foolish attacks of various legislatures. This brought me to the attention of the Sperry & Hutchinson Company, the originator of "Green Trading Stamps;" and it offered me the position of counsel for the company, which I accepted, and so have become a "specialist" in a certain sense. My work has a range from Massachusetts to California, and consists in educating legislators to mind their own business; lessons enforced by nineteen courts of appeal decisions declaring their laws unconstitutional; and also in making new application of old principles, as required by the development of a business made the object of more attacks than any other, I believe, in the evolution of commerce. Much business requiring wide application of general law is transacted by a large modern corporation, and the word "specialist" is rather misleading in this connection. From my experience, I should say, "Don't be afraid of specializing. The same life runs through all law." From my rather unusually broad point of view of legislatures, I have formed the opinion that legislators and governors care as little about law, as a general rule, as the average man. The question is not "Is this lawful?" but, "Is this expedient?" thereby undermining the respect for law, which is the basis of well-ordered society. I know of many cases where judiciary committees have caused to become laws bills which they knew were unconstitutional, and of several cases where governors did the same, though similarly advised by their attorneys-general, the object of both being to please their constituents rather than to do what was, and what they believed to be, right. Such conditions suggest that what this country needs most of all is not a little, but a great deal, of old-fashioned "Puritan Righteousness," which "exalteth a nation."

WILLIAM H. JONES. Occupation, lawyer. Married, no. Situated at 105 Erie County Savings Bank building, Buffalo, N.Y.

ELI JOSEPH. Harrison avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio. Occupation, merchant (president of the Jos. Joseph & Bros. Co. and the Railway Supply & Mfg. Co.), Cincinnati, Ohio. Married. No children.

LEONARD JOSEPH. 10 avenue Messine, Paris, France.

FRED ROBERT JOUETT. 3 Garden street, Cambridge. After graduating from Harvard Medical School in 1899 served as house officer at Massachusetts General Hospital till August, 1900. Began practice in Cambridge Feb. 1, 1901. Elected secretary Cambridge Medical Improvement Society October, 1902. Appointed to out-patient staff of Cambridge Hospital in January, 1904. Married, Sept. 28, 1904, to Miss Florence E. Prior, of Cambridge. Elected secretary of Middlesex South District Medical Society April, 1905.

ALBERT MARTIN KALES. 711, 135 Adams street, Chicago, Ill. Married Anna Bradley 1899. Two children, girls: Elizabeth, five years, Anne, two years. Associate professor of law at Northwestern University Law School, member of the Chicago bar in practice, author of various articles in different law reviews and two books on topics of Illinois law, viz., "Homestead Exemption Laws of State of Illinois," and "Future Interests in Illinois." Member University Club, Chicago Literary Club, City Homes Association, and Law Club.

FREDERIC GUNN KATZMANN. Hyde Park, Mass. I attended the School of Law, Boston University, from the fall of 1900 until June, 1902, when I received the degree of LL.B. Since my admission to the bar in August, 1902, I have been practising law in Boston, with offices in Barristers Hall, Pemberton square. In September of 1902 I was married to Miss Grace Louise Brown, of Hyde Park.

CALVIN HENRY KAUFFMAN. Ann Arbor, Mich. In the fall of 1901 I entered the University of Wisconsin, at Madison, as a graduate student in botany and chemistry. The following spring accepted a position as assistant in botany at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y. While here was elected to the Sigma Xi Society, and became a member of various clubs. In summer of 1904 was appointed to my present position as instructor in botany at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich. Have published a paper on "The Genus Cortinarius, a Group of Fleshy Fungi," and several smaller articles.

JOSEPH P. KEEFE. 60 Galen street, Watertown, Mass. Am practising law, 60 State street, Boston. Single.

WILLIAM M. KERKHOFF. 435 Andrus building, Minneapolis, Minn. January, 1900–February, 1901, secretary Trowbridge & Niver Company, bankers, Chicago. February, 1901–April, 1905, secretary and treasurer Twin City Telephone Company, Minneapolis. April, 1905, president and manager the Yosemite Company, Minneapolis.

FRED. W. KIESEL. Corner Fourth and J Sts., Sacramento, Cal. Have been continuously engaged in banking business as cashier of the California State Bank, and also extensively and actively engaged in growing vineyards and making wine. Was married Dec. 18, 1901; have no family.

ELLIOT CHAMBERLAIN KIMBALL. 1494 Main street, Dubuque, Iowa. The record of my personal history since 1900 would not interest, generally, the men of the class of 1896.

ROBERT KING. Sackville, N.B., Canada. 1903, M.D., C.M. McGill Medical College, Montreal; 1903, house physician Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal; 1904, admitting officer Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal; 1905, in medical practice, Halifax, N.S., Canada. Not married.

ISAAC W. KINGSBURY. 101 West 80th street, New York City. Nothing interesting. Got an M.D. from P. & S. Col. Univ. two years ago. Just finished house surgeon at Presbyterian Hospital, New York City. Am now practising at above address.

HARRY D. KIRKOVER. 472 Ellicott square, Buffalo, N.Y. Managing estate. Married. Not any children. Living in Buffalo, N.Y. Since leaving college have lived in San Francisco, New York City, and Fredonia, N.Y. Have been interested in trolley lines and the Independent Telephone Companies.

LINUS WARD KLINE. Clark University, Ph.D., '98. Teacher State Normal School, Duluth, Minn.

HENRY FRANCIS KNIGHT. The Peabody, Ashmont street, Dorchester, Boston, Mass. Have been practising law ever since leaving Law School in June, 1899. Have been, and still am, associated with Johnson, Clapp & Underwood, 50 State street, Boston. Married, Dec. 18, 1901, to Mabel L. Fales. Daughter, Eleanor Adams Knight, born Jan. 29, 1905.

EDWARD G. KNOBLAUCH. London, Eng. This is a rough sketch of what I have been doing these last ten years. The first year I spent in Paris, working at French and stage technique, so as to equip myself for play-writing. Since then I have been in London almost the entire time (with the exception of a few months in Italy and Spain) and have ground away at dramatic work pretty steadily. This last year I have sold two plays, but as yet they have not been produced, though they may be before the London season is over. As to my future plans, they are as yet uncertain; I don't know whether ultimately I shall remain in London or return to New York, or divide my time equally between the two places. I am not married.

FREDERIC LAWRENCE KNOWLES. 212 Summer street, Boston, Mass. Since 1900 literary editor, Dana, Estes & Co., publishers. Published (1) "On Life's Stairway" (original verse). L. C. Page & Co., 1900 (third revised edition Dana, Estes & Co., 1905); (2) "A Kipling Primer," L. C. Page & Co., 1900; (3) "A Year Book of Famous Lyrics," Dana, Estes & Co., 1901; (4) "A Treasury of Humorous Poetry," Dana, Estes & Co., 1902; (5) The "Famous Children of Literature Series," Dana, Estes & Co., 1902-1904 (six volumes); (6) "Love Triumphant," Dana, Estes & Co., 1905. Unmarried. Rooms in Roxbury. Member of Boston Authors' Club, New York Authors' Club, etc. An occasional contributor since 1900 to Atlantic, Century, Harper's Magazine, etc.

GEORGE W. KNOWLTON, JR. West Upton, Mass. I was married in 1900 to Miss Gwendolyn Burris, of Brooklyn, N.Y. For several years I was in the selling department of William Knowlton & Sons, straw goods manufacturers. I am at the factory end of the business. I have two children, one born Sept. 8, 1901, the other Aug. 18, 1903.

ARTHUR KUHN. Ogden, Utah. Since leaving college I have been in the mercantile business with firm of A. Kuhn & Bro., wholesale clothiers, furnishers, and hatters. I have held an office position, taking charge of correspondences. In January, 1905, firm incorporated, and I was raised to position of secretary-treasurer, and given a good share of the stock for past services. I am still holding the position. In January, 1904, I was married to one of Louisville's (Ky.) beauties. On May 22, 1905, I was blessed with a son and heir, and naturally I am as happy as any member of '96 could hope to be.

FREDERICK HEMAN LADD. Home address, 46 Whittier street, Andover, Mass. Business address, The Lawrence Telegram, Lawrence, Mass. Still in newspaper work at Lawrence for The Telegram, and engaged in correspondence for Boston and New York, and occasionally Chicago, newspapers. Was married Oct. 19, 1899, to Miss Sarah Emma Jones, of East Boston, at Westport, Me. Has two daughters, Bertha Jones Ladd, born at Andover, Mass., Aug. 12, 1900, and Marion Dorothea Ladd, born at Andover, Mass., July 6, 1903.

C. C. LANE. 50 Congress street, Boston, C. C. Lane & Co., cotton brokers. Member New York Cotton Exchange.

CHARLES N. LATHROP. Church of the Advent, San Francisco, Cal. There is nothing in my life to write about. I was elected rector of the Church of the Advent last July. That is all.

AMOS A. LAWRENCE. 61 Commonwealth avenue, Boston. I have been studying the last four years in Paris and now hold a degree as architect from the École des Beaux Arts. I am returning immediately to America, where I intend to become a practising architect.

JOHN EDWARDS LEBOSQUET. 34 Spring street, Somerville, Mass. Was married 1902 to Miss Edith Dustin of Manchester, N.H. Have been minister for the past four years of the Presbyterian church at New Boston, N.H. I have just resigned there, to take effect October 1, in order to study a year at Harvard Divinity School. A little son, Henry Dustin LeBosquet, was born to us June, 1904. He lived but a few days. We appreciated the last class report very much indeed and look forward eagerly to another. Have been glad to receive wedding invitations, etc., from some in the class.

JOHN H. S. LEE. 905 First National Bank building, Chicago. Graduated Northwestern Law School 1898. Three years in state attorney's office, Cook County. Now member of firm Musgrave, Vernon & Lee. Am married. No children.

HARLOW A. LEEKLEY. Court House, Muskogee, Indian Territory. From 1896 to March, 1902, I studied and practised law in Chicago. In March, 1902, the health of my wife making a change of climate necessary, we moved to Muskogee, Indian Territory. I was appointed law clerk in the Cherokee citizenship enrolment division of the U.S. Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes, commonly known as the "Dawes Commission." This position I held for six months when I was appointed U.S. Commissioner with headquarters at Muskogee, the largest city in the territory. The years following have been very busy ones, the U.S. Commissioner in Indian Territory having jurisdiction in civil and criminal causes, there being but two classes of courts, the U.S. District Courts and the U.S. Commissioners' Courts. A few months ago I was appointed assistant U.S. Attorney, but refused the appointment, preferring to continue in my present position. The climate here greatly improved the health of my wife, and I believe the opportunities, for young men especially, to be splendid in this new and rapidly developing country. Though there are many young men holding college degrees, I have not run across any Harvard man resident in the territory. In September, 1901, my second child, a boy, was born. I have not been East since graduation, but have made my plans to be present at the decennial.

MILTON M. LEITER. 43 White Memorial building, Syracuse, N.Y. In the first quarter of the year 1900 I was admitted to the practice of law in the courts of New York State by the Appellate division, first department. Since that time I have practised law first in New York for a period of one year as clerk in one of the large down-town offices, while at present I have an office of my own at No. 43 White building, in the city of Syracuse, New York. During the summer of 1903 I spent some four months in Europe, visiting Germany, France, Switzerland, and England. I am still unmarried and have done nothing sufficiently scandalous to have attracted general attention. My life is the usual one of the daily practising lawyer in a city of moderate size. I have had one important criminal action to defend, which resulted adversely to my client, who is now serving a five years' sentence in Auburn State Prison. Whether he was actually guilty of crime, or only of bad judgment in selection of counsel, is a matter on which at present I have nothing to say.

ISAAC IVAN LEMANN. M.D. Tulane University, 1900. Practising physician, New Orleans. Chief of Clinic to Chair of Clinical Medicine, Tulane; also assistant demonstrator of pathology. Married, Oct. 4, 1904, to Stella Hirsch, of Cincinnati. Past year has been spent abroad in professional study at Strassburg and Vienna. Permanent address: 6317 St. Charles avenue, New Orleans.

JONATHAN LEONARD. Sandwich, Mass. Nothing new to report except the births of two children, Jonathan Norton, May 25, 1903, and Mary Melanie, Jan. 4, 1905.

JOHN PAUL LEONARD. Degree of LL.B. He is engaged in the practice of law at 53 State street, Boston.

JACOB BROWNE LEUMAN. 1519 Third avenue, Louisville, Ky. I am still unmarried but hope to be before the decennial. Upon leaving Harvard I entered the First National Bank of Louisville, and am now the assistant cashier. I am always glad to see Harvard men who come to this city. I am a member of the Pendennis and Tavern Clubs.

ARTHUR G. LEWIS. 84 State street, Boston. I am practising law at 84 State street, in association with William S. Youngman, '95, and four floors above Jack Leonard, whom I see often. I am not married or engaged, though in some danger of falling by the wayside before long, nor have I received any further degree or done anything else at all worthy of note, I regret to say, since the last report was published.

FRED RINALDO LEWIS. Kennebunk, Me. May 1, 1902, I became minister of First Unitarian Church of this town, where I am still settled.

GILBERT NEWTON LEWIS. Cambridge, Mass. In 1900 I went to Europe, where I spent a year in study at the Universities of Leipzig and Göttingen, and in travel. I returned to an instructorship in chemistry at Harvard and there remained until the summer of 1904, when I obtained leave of absence for two years in order to accept a position as physical chemist in charge of the division of weights and measures, in the Philippine civil service. I am now living in Manila. Since the appearance of the last report I have carried on a number of scientific investigations and have written several papers, none of which, however, has yet reached a second edition.

HERSCHEL WILDER LEWIS. Littleton, Mass. When the last class report came out I was principal of the High School in Essex, Mass. Oct. 25, 1902, I was elected to the principalship of the High School in Littleton, Mass., a more lucrative position, and began my duties there the following November 17. I am still in Littleton and expect to stay here until the Lord calls me to a higher salary somewhere else. May 9, 1902, there was born to us a boy, whom we have named Richard James Lewis. He gives good promise of being some day an alumnus of Harvard. Littleton is an unusually intellectual town, with literary, dramatic, women's, and mothers' clubs, and debating societies, snares which the ministers and the schoolmaster of Littleton cannot escape if they would, so that, though long resident in a small town, I have not yet reached the moss-back stage, but manage to keep fairly abreast of the times. As to the rest, I renew my youth annually on commencement day, and by leading a simple and blameless life, steer clear of jail and other inconveniences that I should hesitate to confess to the class report.

KENNETH H. LEWIS. Tennis and Racquet Club, Boston. Is with Dane, Smith & Co., brokers, Boston.

MERRICK LINCOLN. 2 Linden street, Worcester, Mass. During latter half of 1900 and throughout 1901 was a medical house officer at the Massachusetts General Hospital. Then in 1902 traveled in Italy and studied medicine in Berlin, Halle, and Vienna. In 1903 opened an office in Worcester, Mass., for the general practice of medicine. Have been appointed a physician to the out-patient department of Memorial Hospital, Worcester, and an assistant pathologist at the Worcester City Hospital. I am a member of the American Medical Association, the Massachusetts Medical Society, the Winter Club of Worcester, and the Satunck Country Club.

GEORGE LIPPINCOTT. 21 North Water street, Philadelphia, Pa. I am still single. Business and residence unchanged and nothing new to report since 1900.

JOHN A. LONGLEY. Lowell High School, San Francisco, Cal. Is assistant in history at above address.

WALTER R. LORD. Is rector of St. Thomas Church, Bath, N.Y.

CHARLES FREDERICK LYMAN. Dover, Mass. Nothing new to report.

JAMES F. LYNCH. Residence, 80 Westminster road, Brooklyn. Is practising law at 346 Broadway, New York City. Formerly at 32 Liberty street, but for almost five years last past at 346 Broadway.

JOHN O. MACURDY. Watertown, Mass. I am employed by the Metropolitan Park Commissioners in the engineering department. Reside in Watertown. Am not married.

THOMAS J. MANAHAN. 14 Newbury street, Boston. Is practising medicine at above address.

S. VERNON MANN, JR. 38 Wall street, New York. Have had three children born since 1900: Samuel Vernon Mann, 3d, born Aug. 16, 1900; Robert Colgate Vernon Mann, born Sept. 10, 1901; Lloyd Onderdonk Vernon Mann, born Sept. 8, 1902. Been in business with my father at 38 Wall street since I left college — collateral loans. On May 1, 1905, formed partnership of Mann, Bill & Co. to carry on collateral loan, note, and bond business. Nothing else of interest.

PHILIP MANSFIELD. 18 Tremont street, Boston, Mass. I am a member of the law firm of Vahey, Innes &

Mansfield, with offices in the Kimball building, Tremont street, Boston. I am married and have two daughters. In 1903 I was associated with Judge Joseph C. Campbell, of San Francisco, Cal., with offices in that city, and in Nome, Alaska, and Tonopah, Nevada. During the winter of 1903 I assisted the district attorney of San Francisco in prosecuting the Eppinger Brothers, bankers, of San Francisco, who were alleged to have obtained from the National Banks of that city nearly a half a million dollars. I spent much of my time in Boston, New York, Washington, and San Francisco on important litigation. I have had cases in the United States Supreme Court, the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, the Supreme Court of California, and in the Federal Courts of California, Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, and in the District of Columbia. Sept. 5, 1904, I returned East to assist in the defence of Charles L. Tucker, accused of the murder of Mabel Page, and for a period of nearly a year I was actively engaged in attending to the important legal questions which arose in that case. In November of 1905 I assisted in the defence of Dr. Percy D. McLeod, accused of having dismembered the body of Susan Geary. I am vice-consul of Belgium in New England.

ARTHUR H. MARKS. Care Diamond Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio. Is vice-president and superintendent of above company.

ERNEST W. MARLOW. Hotel Stanley, 124 West 47th street, New York City. I am practising law, associated with Osborne, Hess & Churchill at 27 William street, New York City. I have not yet perpetrated matrimony.

ELIAS JOSEPH MARSH, JR. M.D. Columbia, 1900. 24 Church street, Paterson, N.J. On graduating in medicine from Columbia in 1900, I received an appointment on the house staff of Bellevue Hospital, New York, where I followed H. A. Cassebeer. Resigning from the hospital before the completion of my term, I went abroad for further study in pathology and diagnosis. After a year in Munich, Vienna, and Dublin, I returned home to Paterson, where my activities have since been those of most young men trying to build up a medical practice. I have received appointments as assistant physician to St. Joseph's Hospital, and assistant in the Paterson Eye and Ear Infirmary, and am secretary of the Passaic County Medical Society. I have just made arrangements to buy a house at the above address, which I expect will be my permanent one after July 1. I am not married, and have no present matrimonial expectations or aspirations, and I have no births, deaths, etc., to record, nor do I think of anything else that would be of interest to the class.

J. H. THAYER MARTIN. Woodbridge, N.J. Business address, 708 Prudential building, Newark, N.J. After being admitted to the bar as attorney and counsellor in New York in 1898, and as attorney in New Jersey in 1899, I was admitted in New Jersey as counsellor at law in November, 1902. In June, 1902, I entered into partnership with Frederick F. Guild for the general practice of law under the firm name of Guild & Martin at the Newark address above given. In July, 1900, I was appointed township attorney of Woodbridge, which office I held until March, 1904. In November, 1903, I was elected to the New Jersey Legislature for the year 1904 as a member of the House of Assembly from Middlesex County, and was reelected for the year 1905. I am a member of the Harvard Club of New Jersey, and a non-resident member of the Harvard Club of New York City. Was married Feb. 28, 1906, to Miss Edna Boice, of Camden, N.J.

FRANCIS MASON. 781 Park avenue, New York. The last class report left me in Albany, an assistant engineer on the N.Y. C. R.R. In 1901 I was transferred back to

New York, and for a year was busy designing and constructing numerous minor improvements in the vicinity, and making surveys for new lines in the central part of the State. In 1902 I left the road and joined my fortunes with the Pennsylvania tunnels under New York. The first three years were spent in the preliminary work of surveys, estimates, etc., for the East River Division, and the past year in actual construction work. As resident engineer I now have charge of about three miles of tunnels, and to any members of the class who may be interested in engineering work I extend a cordial invitation to drop in. I was married on Sept. 27, 1902, to Helen Tremain Martin at Albany, and have one son, Harding Tremain Mason, born Aug. 19, 1903.

PHILIP DANA MASON. Old Orchard road, Chestnut Hill, Mass. August, 1902, severed connection with Houghton, Mifflin & Co., at the Riverside Press, Cambridge. Abroad from May, 1903, until November, 1904; in London and Paris made a special study of book-binding. Jan. 17, 1905, married, in Boston, to Mary Winthrop Winthrop, daughter of Thomas Lindall Winthrop, of Boston, and of his second wife the late Mrs. Winthrop (born Charlotte Anne Atkinson, of Cowes, Isle of Wight, England). February, 1905, at the Riverside Press, director of the fine binding. Member of the Tavern Club, Boston.

EDWARD ROSCOE MATHEWS. 5 Nassau street, New York. I have a note from Harry Storrs (one of the insistent kind that bores) asking me what in thunder has happened me since 1900. Whether perchance I am fat, or thinner than at our last triennial dinner; whether married or still unwed; be I alive or be I dead. My address, too, he wants to git, "and whatever else I may see fit." Hush, then, Harry, to a waiting world, my exciting life I'll now unfold. On Sept. 14, '99, at Nahant was married—the day was fine. Loulie Shaw Albee was the lady's name, but now as mine her name's the same. Children one, and much alive. Born 1902 on February 5. She is sweet and quaint as any fairy, and bears the name of Esther Cary. Checks, I think, will reach me best in New York, Ninth street, 11 West. Last year with typhoid I nearly died, but "fooled them" and the doctors guyed. In March I started to explore Afric's northern sunny shore, four months' travel put me right, and now for trouble I'm ready quite. Again, now Wall street knows me well, and a whole lot more, but what — do you care !

JOHN LATHROP MATHEWS. The Youth's Companion, Editorial Room 12, 201 Columbus avenue, Boston, Mass. July–December, 1901, special writer and assistant Sunday editor Chicago Tribune; January – December, independent special writer, magazine and syndicate, pen name "John Swain;" January–June, 1903, New Orleans Item, assistant city editor, later acting city and managing editor; October, 1903, on the Mississippi gathering photographs; October, 1903, to date, assistant miscellany editor The Youth's Companion. Have published special articles in various magazines over my pen name as, on Dowie, Century, 1902; on Lorenz, McClure's, 1902; on Dowie, Leslies' Monthly, 1902; "The Rivermouth," Pilgrim, 1903; "Shantyboat Town," Pilgrim, 1903; "The Natchez Trace," Everybody's (to appear) 1905, etc., etc., and various fiction stories over same name in Lippincott's, Ainslie's, McClure's, Youth's Companion, etc.

M. F. McALPINE. 55 Duane street, New York. Since the last report I have been engaged with the New York Edison Company doing commercial engineering work. I have had charge of a department organized for the purpose of introducing the Edison Electric Light service in place of private electric light supply. This work has been interesting and successful. I spent the summer of 1904 in England and Scotland. Unmarried.

F. G. McKEAN, JR. Philadelphia, Pa. Single. Present occupation, attorney at law. Residence, 624 South Washington square. Business address, 826-8 Real Estate Trust building.

WILLIAM WATSON McKIBBEN. 662 Main street, Worcester, Mass. Graduated from Harvard Medical School, 1900. Resident physician Boston Floating Hospital for sick children during the summer of 1900. Then served fourteen months as house officer at the Worcester City Hospital. Practised general medicine at 662 Main street, Worcester, Mass., from Nov. 1, 1901, to July 1, 1903. Then went south to investigate the relationship of mosquitoes to malaria and yellow fever. Returned to the Boston City Hospital, south department, as assistant resident physician until April 15, 1904, when I went to London and Paris, and attended the clinics at the children's hospitals. Returned to Worcester, Mass., Oct. 1, 1904, to specialize in pediatrics. I am a member of the Worcester Economic Club, Worcester Congregational Club, Worcester Twentieth Century Club, Masons, Salisbury Tennis Club, Eastern Star Lodge, and honorary member of the Society of Stationary Engineers of Worcester.

WALTER McKITTRICK. 2913 Locust street, St. Louis, Mo. In business. Since leaving college have been associated with Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Company. I am at present third vice-president of the company. Have received no honors, either business or professional.

C. W. McMURTRY. 812 5th avenue, New York. Not married. Traveling in Europe.

GEORGE A. McROBERTS. Danville, Ky. Is in business, banking and stock raising.

BENJAMIN C. MEAD. Auburn, N.Y. My last letter, I believe, was when I was in the Harvard Law School.

I received my degree from there in June, 1901, returning then to my home in Auburn, N.Y., where I was admitted to the bar the following autumn. Since then my life has been that of the ordinary young lawyer trying to work up a practice. I have tried not to forget the ideals of citizenship and of professional conduct instilled by our well-loved alma mater. I find some time for church work, am interested in drilling a company of boys in the church of which I am a member, and am serving as a high private in the best shooting company of the Empire State Militia. On September 6 of this year I was married to Adelaide Bourne, by which I secured a $\Phi\beta K$ in my wife's name.

LOUIS GUY MEAD. 259 Beacon street, Boston, Mass. Am practising medicine at the above address, which is also my residence. Am unmarried.

B. S. MERIGOLD. 59 Chatham street, Worcester, Mass. In September, 1900, I went to Worcester Polytechnic Institute as instructor in chemistry, which position I held — or the job held me — three years. Since 1903 I have been teaching chemistry, as assistant professor, at Clark University, Worcester. No wildly exciting events to chronicle. No wife, and no immediate danger, thank the Lord.

ROGER BIGELOW MERRIMAN. Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass. I spent the years 1900–1902 (June) in travel and study in England, France, Germany, and Spain. In May, 1902, I published the "Life and Letters of Thomas Cromwell," 2 vols., at the Clarendon Press, Oxford, Eng. In June, 1902, I took the degree of Ph.D. in history at Harvard, and have been an instructor in history at Harvard ever since. I married, June 2, 1904, Dorothea Foote, of Boston. I have a son, Roger Bigelow Merriman, Jr., born April 29, 1905.

ARTHUR MARWOOD MERRYWEATHER. Brown Hoisting Machinery Company, Cleveland, Ohio. 1900, with the Peoples' Gas Light & Coke Co., Chicago. November, 1901, left the P.G.L. & C. Co. to accept position with the Brown Hoisting Machinery Company of Cleveland, Ohio. After working in several departments was transferred to sales department in March, 1905, and also made private secretary to Mr. Alexander E. Brown, vice-president and general manager. At annual meeting, 1905, of Harvard Club, of Cleveland, was elected one of the executive committee. Not married.

LAMAR MIDDLETON. The Chicago Daily News, Paris Bureau, 10 Boulevard des Capucines, Place de l'Opéra. Since 1900 I have been, first, New York head of the Record Cable Service, and then Paris correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, with offices on the Place de l'Opéra, where all American visitors, especially Westerners, will be cordially welcomed. We cover European, political, and other important events by cable from all points of Europe, and provide all facilities for American visitors in Paris. I have three children, Margaret Lamar, Jacques Lamar, and Agnes Lamar, aged, respectively, seven, four, and three, all born in Paris. I am also the correspondent here for the Sunday Chronicle of Manchester, Eng. My newspaper work has included my reporting many important events, including the Dreyfus trial at Rennes, the Haute Cour trials in Paris, the Coronation of the King of Spain, etc. I have also done some magazine work, both in the United States and England. Paris address as above. Country address (where am now living): "Redfarm," Giverny-par-Vernon: Département de l'Eure.

JOSEPH KNOWLES MILLIKEN. North Dighton, Mass.

LEWIS C. MILLIKEN. Is at present ill in the George Washington Hospital, Washington, D.C.

WILLIAM PEPPERELL MONTAGUE. Leaving Harvard in '99 I taught for four years in the University of California, then accepted a position at Columbia where I am now instructor in philosophy. I have contributed a number of articles on philosophy and psychology to the American and English journals.

JOSEPH MORRILL. Am practising law at 54 Devonshire street, Boston. I was married, Oct. 29, 1902, to Miss Olive Williams Morison, of Roxbury, and have a fine boy, John Davis Williams Morrill, born Nov. 26, 1903. I am living at 16 Garrison road, Brookline, but am building a house in Dedham, and shall move in in the fall. I served on the Boston School Committee for the year, 1901-1902. Another boy born Sept. 30, 1905, Joseph Morrill, Jr.

DAVE HENNEN MORRIS. 269 West 72d street, New York City. Married Alice Vanderbilt Shepard June 19, 1895. Four children, viz., three boys, one girl: D. Hennen, Jr., born June 14, 1900; Louise, born Nov. 8, 1901; Marion Lawrence, born April 29, 1903; Ralph Noel, born Dec. 25, 1904. I was admitted to New York bar March 5, 1901. Received degree LL.B. from New York Law School June 13, 1901. Member of following clubs: New York: University, Metropolitan, Racquet, Harvard, Westchester Country, Larchmont Yacht, Democratic; Cambridge: Harvard Union, AΔΦ; New Orleans: Boston Club. Secretary of Van Nest Land & Improvement Co., $1,000,000 capital. Treasurer New York Railroad & Development Co., $2,000,000 capital. President of Automobile Club of America. Attorney for New York & Portchester Railroad Co. Summer home, Bar Harbor, Me. Was king of the New Orleans Carnival, 1905.

HERBERT L. F. MORSE. 16th street, corner Jacob, Troy, N.Y. January, 1894, made head of department of science in the Troy High School. Have two boys, seven and three years old. No honors of any account, only plenty of hard work.

HERBERT NORTH MORSE. 901 Berkeley avenue, Trenton, N.J. Leaving college in the middle of my sophomore year on account of contracting malarial fever I graduated from Pierce Business College in Philadelphia in May, 1896. I was appointed State supervisor of the school census in 1898, holding that office until it was discontinued in 1901. Was then appointed chief of the bureau of statistics of the department of public instruction of the State of New Jersey, and still have charge of that office. In 1903 became the majority stockholder and president of the Morse & Walsh Co., manufacturers of adding machines, and still hold the position. I am a member of the Corinthian Yacht Club, Morris Guards, and Atlantic City Country Club, all of Atlantic City, N.J. A member of the Park Allen Canoe Club and the American Canoe Association. Have summer residences at Rangeley lake and Wayne pond in Maine. Married in 1899.

JAMES H. MORSE, JR. 129 East 76th street, New York City. My history since leaving college has been entirely uneventful. I started in at once as a teacher in my father's school; was a partner three years ago. A year ago last March I left off school teaching and since then have been in the employ of R. Hoe & Co., makers of printing presses. I have not married, and belong to the small section of the class who are still bachelors.

ROBERT G. MORSE. Jamaica Plain, Mass. Until 1904 I was with the Illinois Steel Company at south Chicago. Since June, 1904, have been treasurer of Massachusetts Steel Casting Company, Everett, Mass.

ALEXANDER AMERTON MORTON. 1543 Monadnock block, Chicago, Ill. At the present time I am at the head of the motor and transformer department of the Chicago office of the Stanley G. I. Electric Manufacturing Company. Since my last report a second son has been added to my family. I have not had a chance to get to Cambridge, nor does the outlook seem promising for a trip this year.

THOMAS MOTLEY, JR. 33 Exchange building, Boston, Mass. Became a partner of firm of Curtis & Sanger Jan. 1, 1902. Nothing further to report.

LUTHER W. MOTT. Oswego, N.Y. I was married Dec. 10, 1902, to Ruth Woolsey Johnson, and we have two children, Luther Wright Mott, Jr., and Alice Wright Mott. Am still in banking here where I am vice-president and cashier of the First National Bank of Oswego. Am also a director of the Oswego City Savings Bank and the Syracuse Trust Company of Syracuse, N.Y., and an organizer and director of the Auburn Trust Company, of Auburn, N.Y. A year ago I was elected president of the Oswego Chamber of Commerce. Have done some writing for newspapers, but have not time to keep it up. Belong to Harvard Clubs of New York, Syracuse, and Buffalo, University Club of Syracuse, City, Country, Yacht, and Fortnightly Clubs of Oswego.

WILLIAM KENDRICK MOTT. Watertown, N.Y. The past few years have been occupied in the study of law and acting as vice-principal of the Syracuse Classical School, Syracuse, N.Y. In May, 1905, I was admitted to the bar at Rochester, and at present am engaged in the practice of the law at Watertown, N.Y.

AARON J. MOYER. 196 Grand avenue, Springfield, Ohio. Engaged in the study of the theory and practice of accountics. Single.

WILLIS MUNRO. 111 Broadway, New York. In 1901 I continued work with Moot, Sprague, Brownell &

Marcy, of Buffalo. Ill health compelled a second cruise on the U.S.S. "Enterprise," touching at Leith, Copenhagen, St. Petersburg, with a side trip to Moscow, back to Kiel, the German naval station, through the Kiel canal to Antwerp and Gravesend. Here I left the ship, and at Leith took the Danish mail steamer to Iceland and back. Mayor Low's campaign against Van Wyck attracted me, and I went to New York as secretary of the Watchers' Committee of the Citizens Union. Then I was retained by the law committee of the union "to organize the law department on a permanent basis, handle contested election cases, and prosecute violations of the election law." This I did, investigating one hundred and fifteen complaints. Fourteen cases were taken to court. Two were dismissed by the magistrate, and two held by the magistrates were dismissed by the grand jury. In three cases bail was forfeited, in one, conviction was followed by a suspended sentence and in four others by sentence of from one year to one year and eight months in state's prison. One contested election resulted in a slight but immaterial change in the totals of the candidates, and one case of a man held by the magistrate for intimidating a deputy was still pending when I left the work Jan. 2, 1902, to accept an appointment as deputy assistant district attorney under Mr. Jerome. Then for four months I was in the complaint bureau, and for a year assisted in preparation and trial of homicide cases. I broke down and was obliged to resign Aug. 15, 1903. On recovering I again served as secretary of the Citizens Union Watchers' Committee, and later opened an office at 5 Nassau street. Another breakdown followed in August, 1904, which compelled me to give up all work and place myself entirely under a physician's care. This brought complete recovery and I have taken an office in the Trinity building at 111 Broadway.

VERNON MUNROE. 45 William street, New York City. For three years beginning with 1900 I worked with the New York Fire Insurance Exchange, making rates and learning the rudiments of underwriting. After an interval I entered the employ of R. C. Rathbone & Son, Incorporated, insurance brokers, with which company I hope to stay, as I have now a small interest in the stock. I was married on Dec. 18, 1901, to Sally Sprague Cook, and lived in New York until the spring of 1903, when we moved to the country after my small son, David Hoadley Munroe, was born. We rusticated at Altamont, N.Y., and led the simple life until the autumn, when we returned to New York, and I took up my present work. I belong to the noble army of commuters, and live in Morristown, New Jersey.

LESTER B. MURDOCK. Broker, No. 312 Banigan building, Providence, R.I. Married, Nov. 7, 1900. One boy.

LAWRENCE B. MYERS. After leaving college I travelled abroad for a time. On my return I accepted a position in the banking house of Speyer & Co. I joined the New York Stock Exchange in December, 1897. I am now a trader on the Exchange, and make my headquarters at R. L. Keen & Co., 25 Broad street.

FRANK G. NEAL. 7 Atlantic street, South Boston, Mass. I am still with the South Boston Savings Bank. There have been no particular changes in my life since 1900. I am still single, and suppose that I am getting a fair share of health, happiness, and prosperity.

CHAUNCEY W. NORTON. Cazenovia, N.Y. M.D. cum laude Harvard Medical School, June, 1900. Served as surgical house officer at Massachusetts General Hospital, graduating Dec. 1, 1902. Developed pulmonary tuberculosis and has been traveling and living in the country for last three years. Unmarried.

EXTEIN NORTON. New Brighton, Staten Island. Member of Calumet, Richmond County Country Club, and

Staten Island Club. Married Miss Jane Washington Helm of Louisville, Ky., Feb. 21, 1905.

JOHN LORD O'BRIAN. Residence, 40 Hodge avenue, Buffalo, N.Y. Office, 700 Ellicott square, Buffalo, N.Y. Married Alma E. White at Buffalo, N.Y., Sept. 17, 1902. One daughter, Alma Elizabeth O'Brian, born Nov. 23, 1903. Attorney and counsellor, engaged in general practice. Member of law faculty, University of Buffalo, and of the Council of the University.

WALTER J. O'MALLEY, JR. Attorney and counsellor at law. 10 Tremont street.

WILLIAM WALKER ORR. Scarsdale, N.Y. Married Mary Montgomery Fleming in Scarsdale, May 29, 1901. Have been in business in New York since leaving college. Now with Globe Underwear Company as secretary-treasurer.

JOHN FREDERIC OSBORN. Permanent business address (at present), 299 Marginal street, East Boston. Up to Jan. 1, 1903, was with the Planter's Compress Company as mechanical engineer in Texas, and afterward as their representative at the Builders' Iron Works in Providence. From Jan. 1, 1903, to June, 1904, was with the Agnew Auto Mailing Machine Company in Boston as designer on special machinery. From there I joined Mr. George A. Lowry in June, 1904, until the present time, when I am engaged as mechanical engineer and designer on new machines and inventions, the latest of which is a cotton picker, for the manufacture of which a company is now forming. Mr. Lowry was the original inventor of the round bale of cotton used by the Planter's Compress Company. I expect to be married in the winter of 1906 to Miss Lucia Lincoln Boggs, daughter of ex-Commodore Edwin P. Boggs of the old Hull, Massachusetts, Yacht Club.

FRANK OUTERBRIDGE. 39 Broadway, New York City, N.Y. I have so far avoided the toils of matrimony—have no births to record, nor deaths, being alive and enjoying the best health. On Dec. 31, 1901, I was admitted to the firm of A. E. Outerbridge & Co., commission merchants and steamship agents. I have since endeavored to earn an honest living. Commissioned Second Lieutenant, Troop 2, Squadron "A," N.G., N.Y.

FRANK R. PAGE. Savings Bank building, Watertown, Mass. I have been superintendent of schools at Watertown, Mass., since 1900. Married in May, 1904, Grace Lougee, of Watertown.

GEORGE LYMAN PAINE. 38 Sumner street, Dorchester, Mass. Chief items of general interest since 1900 are: George Lyman Paine, Jr., born Nov. 16, 1901; Alfred White Paine, born June 9, 1903. Transferred from St. Mark's Church, New York City, to St. Mary's Church, Dorchester, May 1, 1902, where I still am working most happily and expect to for some time yet. Twice I have been back as a student to Harvard—namely, in the Summer School of Theology, and will go there again this coming July.

JOHN G. PALFREY. Residence, Belmont, Mass., and 261 Beacon street, Boston. Member of firm, Boyden, Palfrey, Bradlee & Twombly, counsellors at law, 60 State street, Boston. Married, Oct. 3, 1905, at Auburn, Me., to Methyl Oakes.

LAWRENCE PARK. 8 Beacon street, Boston. In July, 1901, I left the employ of Shepley, Rutan & Coolidge, architects, where I had been since November, 1897, and, with Robert R. Kendall, opened an office for the practice of architecture at 8 Beacon street, Boston, under the firm name of Park & Kendall. I am engaged to Miss Minna D. Motley, of Groton, Mass., and hope before long to join the rapidly increasing list of married ninety-sixers.

CHARLES HENRY PARKER, JR. 33 Chestnut street, Boston, Mass. I am at present in the office of Townsend, Anthony & Tyson, bankers and brokers, 40 State street, Boston, Mass. I have been occupied also with the management of certain trust estates, and as executor. Of my domestic life I have nothing to record, not having succumbed to matrimony as most of the members of our class seem to have done. All I can say in that line is, that I have served as usher three times to members of the class of '96 during the past year. I am looking forward to meeting the members from far and near at the "decennial" next June.

FRANK E. PARKER. Boston, Mass., 1111 Barristers Hall. From 1900 to the middle of 1903 I continued a rather uneventful career as teller in the National Bank of Redemption, Boston. In the latter part of 1903 I accepted a position with the Barber-Colman Company, of Boston, and Rockford, Ill., manufacturers of textile knot-tying machines. Early in 1904 I went abroad as salesman and representative of this company, having as my field the northern provinces of Italy, with Milan as headquarters, a territory completely dotted with textile mills of every description, particularly cotton, spinning, and weaving mills. That I met with success in a territory where labor is about the cheapest in any civilized country speaks well for the merits of the labor-saving device I was introducing. It is a fact that labor is so cheap that the mills in the northern provinces are able to manufacture cotton grown in our Southern States into fabrics and ship them to all parts of the world, especially South America, at such ruinously low figures as to defy the competition of England, America, or Japan. I visited many fine mills in Lombardy and Piedmont, many of them located far up the valleys of the mountains were run by natural water powers that were almost perfect, while as many more were equipped throughout with electricity. Italy is certainly not behind in her development of the textile industries. When I visited King Victor Emmanuel his Highness evinced a great interest in the Yankee invention and wanted a machine as a souvenir of the occasion, but I compromised by giving him my photograph, whereupon, not to be outdone, he handed me a ticket good for a year on all the government's railways in the country, at the regular subscription rate. At the close of 1904 I returned to Boston, and in spite of a considerable experience in knot-tying in a warm climate, I may be found, still single, at the Boston office of the Barber-Colman Company, 1111 Barristers Hall.

JAMES P. PARKER. Home address, 25 Eliot street, Jamaica Plain, Mass.; office, 23 Central street, Boston. Member of firm of Taft & Parker, insurance. Married, Oct. 17, 1900, Emmeline E. Williams. Born, Katharine W. Parker, Aug. 16, 1901. Member of following clubs: Boston Athletic Association, Boston; Harvard Club, New York; Army and Navy Club, New York; Tedesco Country Club, Swampscott, Mass. Lieutenant and ordinance officer, Massachusetts Naval Brigade; junior vice-commander the Naval and Military Order of the Spanish American War; president, vice-president, and general agent for New England of the Empire State Surety Company of New York.

JOHN D. PARKER. East Milton, Mass. Is with A. Shuman & Co., Boston.

WILLIAM AINSWORTH PARKER. Teacher at St. Paul's School, Concord, N.H., from September, 1896 — June, 1902. Student at Harvard Law School from 1902 — 1905. Until further notice in office of Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett, 25 Broad street, New York.

ALFRED J. PAUL. 383 Washington street, Boston. Am engaged in the wholesale jewelry business. Am married and have one child.

JOHN WELD PECK. Clifton, Cincinnati, Ohio. Since 1900 I have been actively engaged in the general practice of the law, in the firm of Peck, Shoffer & Peck, in Cincinnati. I have been engaged mostly in the trial of causes, particularly railroad condemnations. I have two children, both girls. I have been actively interested in politics on the Democratic and Municipal reform side. Have served on most of the local campaign committees during the past five years. Was chairman of the fusion committee in 1902 when Melville E. Ingalls was the defeated candidate for mayor. Member of the Literary Club.

JAMES WESSON PHELPS. Office address, 26 State street, Hartford, Conn.; home address, Bolton, Conn. Occupation, landscape architect. Dec. 27, 1900, married Florence Maude Howe at Worcester, Mass.

CLAY ARTHUR PIERCE. Waters Pierce Oil Company, St. Louis, Mo. I entered actively into business in March, 1899, in the capacity of assistant treasurer of the Waters Pierce Oil Company, with headquarters in St. Louis, Mo. In 1900 I was still in that position, and in 1904 I was made assistant secretary and assistant treasurer of the same company, and in June, 1905, was elected president of the same company, which position I am at present filling. I am living in St. Louis, Mo., during the winter, and have a summer home at Prides Crossing, Mass., "Brooklea," where my family spends the summer, and my family now consists of two boys and a girl, the eldest being six and one-half years, and the youngest four months. There have been no deaths.

LAWRENCE PIERPONT. Superintendent Cobb Cocoa Company, 384 Illinois street, Chicago. Residence, 1805 Barry avenue, Chicago; married; one son.

ALBERT L. PITCHER. Mystic, Conn. Received my A.M. in 1901. Went to the Philippines as a teacher, for two years. My fiancée joined me and we were married in Manila March 5, 1902. We saw six weeks' worth of China and Japan. In 1903 I returned to the States, and have been teaching since.

FRANCIS D. POLLAK. Residence, 191 Palisade avenue, Yonkers, N.Y.; business, 49 Wall street, New York City. I have little of general interest to add to the last chronicle. The association with the firm of Sullivan & Cromwell, which began on my admission to the bar in 1899, has continued ever since. On Jan. 1, 1906, my name was added to the list of members of the firm. On Jan. 4, 1901, I married Miss Inez Cohen, of New York City. We now live with our three children in Yonkers.

HENRY WHITCOMB PORTER. Lexington, Mass. Nothing of especial interest has occurred since 1900. In November, 1902, I left the high school at Arlington, where I had been for three years, to come to Lexington. At present I hold the position of superintendent of schools and principal of the high school in this town.

WILSON M. POWELL, JR. Married October, 1902, and have one child, a boy, Wilson M. Powell, 3d, a little over two years old. I live at No. 130 East 70th street, New York City, and have a law office at 29 Wall street.

FREDERICK HAVEN PRATT. F. 14, Cambridge, Mass. Biologist and ex-medical student. Employed by the Laboratory of Physiology, Harvard Medical School. Unmarried as usual.

WILLIAM E. PUTNAM, JR. 6 Hancock avenue, Boston. Graduated with an A.B. in '96 and with a B.S. from the M.I.T. in '98. Served a year in an architect's office, and since then has indulged in his chosen profession, two years for himself and three years as senior partner of the firm Putnam & Cox. He is still in the matrimonial market and open to sealed proposals, though he reserves the right to reject any or all bids. Communications will be considered strictly confidential.

FRANK H. RATHBURN. 453 Fourth avenue, New York City. In the fall of 1901 I gave up my position with Little, Brown & Co., Boston, intending to do some writing, but within ten months my father died, so that I found it necessary to take up his business. I am now president of the concern, Milton Rathburn Company.

GEORGE T. RICE. 19 Congress street, Boston. Is with Jackson, Curtis & Co.

HERBERT THOMAS RICH. 191 West River street, Hyde Park, Mass. Married, Dec. 25, 1902, to Mabel C. Jenney, of Hyde Park. Spent the summer of 1903 in Europe. Elected member of Hyde Park School Committee, 1905. I am still teaching in the Boston Latin School.

WINFIELD S. RICH. 108 High street, Malden, Mass. My life since 1900 has been very uneventful. I am still teaching in the Malden High School. The school has nearly doubled in size since I came here in 1897. A little variety came one summer when Mrs. Rich and I took a trip to Europe; otherwise there is little to chronicle.

ARCHER TYLER ROBINSON. 14 Biltmore street, Jamaica Plain, Mass. I am still teaching English at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

HARRY EZRA ROBINSON. 296 Commonwealth avenue, Boston. Is with the United Shoe Machinery Manufacturing Company.

ALFRED RODMAN, JR. P.O. Box 1461, Seattle, Wash. Left Boston in July, 1903. Now with the Pacific Coast Company, Seattle, Wash.

DUDLEY P. ROGERS. 50 State street, Boston. Partner, firm William A. Russell & Bro., 50 State street, Boston. Clubs: Tennis and Racquet, Boston; Exchange, Boston; Myopia Hunt, Hamilton. Unmarried; no children. Summer home, "Day Farm," Danvers, Mass.

WILLIAM B. ROGERS. 152 Commonwealth avenue, Boston. Is a broker on Boston Stock Exchange.

CARL ABRAHAM ROSS. 659 The Rookery, Chicago, Ill. Began practice of law independently Jan. 1, 1905, making a specialty of legal opinions on stocks and bonds. Not married.

HERBERT A. ROSS. 26 State street, Hartford, Conn. Admitted at Northampton to bar of Massachusetts in October, 1897. Admitted to bar of Connecticut at Hartford, January, 1898, where I have since been engaged in practice of law. Served as corporal in Company F, First Infantry Connecticut Volunteers, in 1898. Member of Common Council, City of Hartford, from 1903 to 1905. Member Spanish-American War Veterans; Republican Club, Hartford; Municipal Art Society, Hartford; ex-president of Current Topic Club, Hartford.

GEORGE J. E. ROUSSIN. 726 Moody street, Lowell, Mass. I am in the drug business. Am not yet entitled to what they call "matrimonial bliss," but hope to get it some future day.

HOWLAND S. RUSSELL. Milton, Mass. I was married June 1, 1904, and have a son, born Feb. 24, 1905, named Henry Sturgis. My address is Milton or 87 Milk street, care of Hayden, Stone & Co. I married Katherine Thayer, of Lancaster, Mass.

THOMAS H. RUSSELL, 2d. 27 State street, Boston. Upon graduating from the Law School in 1899 commenced practice of the law with Russell & Russell, the firm of which Governor Russell was formerly a member. In March, 1903, became a member of the firm. Have been too busy with practice and other outside activities to go in much for politics, although I received this fall the Republican nomination for the Governor's Council in the fourth Councillor District. Did my share of spellbinding, but was not elected. Am not married but expect to be in the near future.

EDWARD P. SANDS. P.O. 459 Station C, Los Angeles, Cal. In 1900-1901 I was assistant secretary to Hon. T. N. Hart, Mayor of Boston; detailed for service in street department. Since January, 1902, I have been a man of leisure. At present I am traveling up and down the Pacific coast seeking my ideal spot to locate and try ranching on a small scale. I was married, Feb. 15, 1905, to Mrs. Nellie M. Law, of West Newton, Mass.

HENRY LINDSAY SANFORD. 207 Osborn building, Cleveland, Ohio. 1901-3 studied medicine in Europe after leaving Massachusetts General Hospital. 1903-4 resident surgeon Lakeside Hospital, Cleveland, Ohio. 1904-5 practising medicine, Cleveland.

FRED M. SARGENT. 6016 Jackson Park avenue, Chicago. November, 1900, to January, 1903, assistant superintendent of schools, Chicago; January, 1903, to October, 1904, leave of absence, ill-health; October, 1904, director extension department, Chicago Normal School.

PORTER EDWARD SARGENT. Cambridge, Mass. From 1900 to 1904 I continued to occupy the position of master of sciences in the Browne and Nichols School, Cambridge. During that time I continued my scientific research at my own laboratory, and as a result of that work have published eight scientific papers of a technical nature on various subjects in comparative neurology. A portion of this time I was also research assistant of the Carnegie Institution. I am a member of various scientific societies with long names, before which I have yearly read papers. During the year 1904-05 I was traveling in Europe.

HENRY S. SATTERLEE. 8 West 18th street, New York City. Is practising medicine at above address.

JOHN P. SAWYER. Banigan building, Providence, R.I. Married June 1, 1904. In stock brokerage business in Providence.

LOUIS SAYER. Canandaigua, N.Y. Nothing new in my life since 1900. Am still engaged in various business pursuits here. Have had two children born since, though, making four in all, two sons and two daughters.

GEORGE CRANCH SCOTT. Framingham, Mass. After graduation I went out to California and spent nearly three years in charge of quite a large fruit orchard. In 1899 I returned to Boston and entered the banking business, where I still am, with Lee, Higginson & Co., State street. I was married, June, 1905, to Mary Kennard, and am living quietly in Framingham.

GEORGE D. SCOTT. 186 Kenrick park, Newton, Mass. Is practising medicine at above address.

S. F. SEARS. 71 Kilby street, Boston. Care of W. B. Sears Insurance Agency. Unmarried.

M. G. SEELIG. Vanol building, 3908 Olive street, St. Louis, Mo. June, 1900, degree of M.D., medical department, Columbia University, New York; secured Harsen clinical prize of $150, bronze medal, and diploma; also Harsen prize of $25 and diploma for ranking among first ten men of the class during the four years medical course; secured first place on Mt. Sinai Hospital interne staff, after competitive examination. June, 1900-January, 1903, Mt. Sinai Hospital as interne on surgical side. January, 1903–January, 1904, studied medicine and surgery and pathology at Berlin University. March, 1904, settled in St. Louis to practise surgery. Have published "Treatment of the Stump in Appendicectomy," "Superstition in Medicine," "Scopalamine as an adjuvant to Anæsthesia." Appointed associate surgeon to Jewish Hospital of St. Louis; chief of surgical out-patient department of Jewish Hospital; assistant in anatomy at medical department of St. Louis University.

HAROLD SELFRIDGE. Lowell Textile Company, Lowell, Mass. There has been no change since the last report. No marriages, deaths, etc. (or births that I know about).

ALFRED DWIGHT SHEFFIELD. 142 Thompson street, Springfield, Mass. Editor. Address, Care of G. & C. Merriam Co., Springfield, Mass. Married, May 16, 1905, to Miss Ada Eliot, of St. Louis.

LUTHER DIMMICK SHEPARD, JR. 330 Dartmouth street, Boston. Harvard Medical School, M.D., 1900; Harvard Dental School, D.M.D., 1902. I have been practising dentistry at 330 Dartmouth street since October, 1902. I was married in June, 1904, to Frances Conway, and live at present at 139 Mason terrace, Brookline.

ANDREW ROTHWELL SHERIFF. 2723 Prairie avenue, Chicago. Am pleased to report, since 1900, the following births: Rothwell Mitchell Sheriff, July, 1901. William H. M. Sheriff, April, 1904; one little girl, probably Elizabeth (last week), July, 1905. No publications, no distinctions, except as above noted. Am working hard and steadily at the law, and my habits in this respect are becoming known and are being suitably rewarded. Director Chicago & Calumet River R.R. Co., Illinois Car Company, Cobb Cocoa Company and others; vestryman Trinity Church. Calumet Club, Hamilton Club, Lake Geneva Country Club, Legal Club and others.

ARTHUR A. SHURTLEFF. Landscape architect, 22 Congress street, Boston. Since 1900: Member of faculty arts and sciences Harvard University; member Boston Society of Architects; member American Society of Landscape Architects. Opened office of my own at 22 Congress street, November, 1904. Married Margaret H. Nichols, April, 1905.

PRESCOTT ORDE SKINNER. Hanover, N.H. Since the fall of 1900 I have been instructor in romance languages in Dartmouth College. I was married during the summer of 1901 and have a daughter nearly three years old.

ALBERT E. SMALL. Clinton, Mass. After graduating from the medical school in 1900, took a year's service as interne at St. Luke's Hospital, New Bedford. Went abroad immediately at the close of the service, spending about a year studying in the hospitals of Vienna. Upon my return settled in practice here. Spent the winter of 1903 in the South as private physician to an aged gentleman. Was appointed assistant visiting physician to the Clinton Hospital in 1903. Have since been made resident pathologist and elected as secretary of the medical staff. Received the appointment of city physician in 1905.

FRANK L. SMART. Dubuque, Iowa. Mine is the uneventful life of the teacher.

CONRAD SMITH. 279 Dartmouth street, Boston. Is practising medicine at above address.

FITZ-HENRY SMITH, JR. 132 Newbury street, Boston. Graduated from Harvard Law School in 1899 and was admitted to the bar in September of the same year. Entered the office of Carver & Blodgett, Boston, and remained there until January, 1905, when formed a partnership with N. W. Bingham, Jr., '95, and Donald M. Hill, '98, under the style of Bingham, Smith & Hill, with offices in the Monks building, 35 Congress street, Boston. Engaged in general law practice and specializing in marine matters. Not married.

GEORGE EDWARD SMITH. In college I achieved the rare distinction of attaining grade A in Fine Arts IV. Philanthropists, however, not being "civilized," do not endow our Fine Arts Department with $1,000 scholarships to be had for the asking. Disappointed, therefore, in my ambition to emulate John Ruskin and Charles Eliot Norton, I have actually become only a "frenzied financier." Address, 6 Wall street, New York.

REGINALD C. SNYDER. Coshocton, Ohio. The story of my life! Easy. After wandering at random for a few years I found happiness at last in newspaper work. In 1902 I came to Coshocton from my home at Findlay, and in November, 1905, purchased controlling interest in The Age, of which I am now president and general manager. Was married in 1887 to Miss Alice Mack, daughter of John T. Mack, editor of the Sandusky, Ohio, Register. One daughter, Alice, aged seven, has come to us. The peculiar part of it all is, I do not know half as much as I thought I knew just ten years ago.

GEORGE HOMER SPALDING. 30 Hildreth building, Lowell, Mass. Married, Jan. 30, 1902, to Harriet W. Conant, of Lowell. Have one child, Elizabeth, born April 26, 1905. Have been practising law in Lowell ever since my admission to the bar in February, 1899. Am at present a member of the firm of Spalding & Spalding, the other member being my brother, Arthur C. Spalding, '99. Am secretary of the Lowell Harvard Club and a member of the Vesper Country Club and Long Meadow Golf Club, being also secretary of the latter club. Get most of my recreation playing golf on the links of these last two clubs.

RUFUS W. SPRAGUE, JR. 32 Liberty street, New York City. August, 1900, entered office of Alexander & Colby, 120 Broadway, New York City, attorneys and counsellors at law. Remained with them until April 1, 1903, when I formed partnership with Mr. Walter E. Coe and opened law offices at 26 Liberty street, New York City, under firm name of Coe & Sprague. Appointed lecturer on "Civil Procedure under New York Code" at Harvard Law School in January, 1903, and again for academic year 1904-1905, and delivered course of lectures in those years. On May 1, 1905, formed firm of McLaughlin, Russell, Coe & Sprague, with law offices in Mutual Life building, 32 Liberty street, New York City. Not married.

MARKHAM WINSLOW STACKPOLE. 330 Dartmouth street, Boston. On June 22, 1901, I was married to Miss Agnes G. Smith, of Andover. In November, 1904, I left Magnolia after being minister there for five years and came to Boston to be associate minister at Central Congregational Church, Newbury and Berkeley streets. Pierpont Stackpole, my first child, was born Jan. 22, 1905.

R. H. E. STARR. 143 Liberty street, New York. I was married on Jan. 21, 1904. There have been no births or deaths in the family since. I am still trying to practise patent law, keep other people and myself out of as much trouble as possible, and get as much fun out of life without accepting any more responsibilities than are actually shoved upon me.

EDWIN H. STEEDMAN. There has been nothing doing outside of the humdrum of everyday life in connection with a successful business career and a few of the pleasures which have been left to us benighted bachelors. My permanent address is care of Curtis & Co. Mfg. Co., 2211 Washington avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

REDMOND D. STEPHENS. The Temple, Chicago, Ill. On Jan. 1, 1902, I became a member of the firm of Hamline, Scott & Lord, attorneys, 500 The Temple, Chicago. This firm was dissolved in February, 1904, by the death of John H. Hamline, the senior partner, and was succeeded by the firm of Scott, Bancroft, Lord & Stephens, of which I am now a member. The same offices are retained. I was married on Feb. 18, 1903, to Marion B. Ream, daughter of Norman B. Ream. My home address is 99 Astor street, Chicago.

R. D. STERLING. Address, Seymour, Baylor County, Texas. Business, ranching. Married on Nov. 18, 1905, to Ruth Lancaster Hoe in New York City.

WALLACE HENRY STERNS. Pomfret Center, Conn. Granville, Mass., Congregational Church, 1897-1900; Blackstone, Mass., Congregational Church, January, 1901, January, 1904; Pomfret, Conn., Congregational Church, November, 1904-?. Son, Philip H. Sterns, born Blackstone, Feb. 15, 1902. Registrar of Windham County Congregational Conference.

THOMAS G. STEVENSON. 357 Beacon street, Boston, or Readville, Mass.

CHARLES G. STEWARD. 1140 Columbus avenue, Boston. Is practising dentistry at the above address.

FRANK RUDOLPH STEWARD. 1225 Franklin street, Pittsburg, Pa. I returned from the Philippines June 3, 1901, and was mustered out at San Francisco, Cal., as captain 49th Infantry, U.S. Volunteers. Came to Pittsburg 1902 and was admitted to the Allegheny County bar and have been practising here since that time at No. 12 Excelsior building, corner 6th and Grant streets, Pittsburg, Pa. Contributed a chapter on "colored officers" to a book published by my father, Chaplain T. G. Steward, 25th U.S. Infantry, entitled "The Colored Regulars in the United States Army," 1904. Am unmarried.

CHARLES SENFF STILLMAN. South Natick, Mass. From the fall of 1906 I remained with the firm of Blake Bros. & Co. until January, 1903, when I entered the bond department of Messrs. Hayden, Stone & Co., in which business I still continue. I have joined but one club, "The Tennis and Racquet," which at times affords me considerable entertainment. My life continues the even tenor of its way and up to the present writing remains undisturbed by professional honors, publications, etc.

JAMES A. STILLMAN. 52 Wall street, New York. I spent one year in the offices of the New York Security & Trust Company, New York City, and two years doing work for my father. In 1899 I was appointed assistant cashier of The National City Bank of New York, and in 1906 I was elected vice-president. I was married in 1901 and have two children.

FREDERIC HAINES STILLWAGEN. 31 Nassau street, New York City. After leaving the Harvard Law School at the end of my second year, I entered the University of Pennsylvania Law School, and was graduated from there in June, 1899, with the degree of LL.B. Two years later I completed my third year work at the Harvard Law School and received the degree of LL.B. from there as of 1899. At the time of my admission to the Philadelphia bar in June, 1899, I was connected with the law offices of Samuel B. Huey, Esq., and on his death, in 1901, became associated with his son, Arthur B. Huey, Esq. On April 1, 1904, I formed an association with Charles E. Le Barbier, Esq., formerly assistant district attorney of New York County, and have since been engaged with him in the general practice of the law, with offices in the National Bank of Commerce building. I was married Oct. 8, 1902, to Marian Emily Durand.

PHILIP STOCKTON. 50 State street, Boston. Is president of City Trust Company. Married Miss Margaret Head, of Boston, Feb. 3, 1906.

HENRY A. STONE. 66 Prospect street, West Newton, Mass. Health Commissioner, Newton. Married 1902. One child. Newton Club, Braeburn Country Club, St. Botolph Club.

JOSHUA WINTHROP STONE. 165 Grove street, Watertown, Mass. In the summer of 1903 I resigned my position as principal of the North Berwick High School and gave up teaching as a profession. Since then I have been in business with my father in Watertown, Mass. Teaching is a noble profession, but I decided that I would rather handle a little more money than I would earn by teaching. I have now two children — the second, Winthrop Ernest Stone, was born May 8, 1902.

RICHARD CUTTS STOREY. 735 Exchange building, Boston, Mass. I am now a member of the firm of Storey, Thorndike, Palmer & Thayer, practising law at the above address. I have three children, Catherine, Richard Cutts, Jr., and Moorfield, 2d.

HENRY RANDOLPH STORRS. Brookline, Mass. Entered the Harvard Medical School in 1901, graduating in 1905 cum laude. Am at present surgical house officer at the Boston City Hospital.

J. McCULLOCH STURGIS. With George Batten Company, advertising agents, New York, 38 Park Row. Unmarried. Permanent address, Manchester, Mass.

JOHN R. SWANTON. Bureau of American Ethnology, Washington, D.C. After a trip to southern Alaska and the Skeene river I returned to the East in August, 1901, and took up my permanent residence in Washington a month later. In July, 1903, I was made full ethnologist in the Bureau of American Ethnology. December 16th of the same year I was married to Alice Barnard, of Washington, and we left immediately for Sitka, Alaska, where I was to engage in field work for the bureau. Late in March, 1904, we moved to Wrangell and in May returned to Washington via Southern California and St. Louis. Am a member of no clubs except the local Harvard Club, the American Anthropological Association and the Washington Anthropological Society. I have contributed Part I. of Volume V., Jesup North Pacific Expedition, in the Memoirs of the American Museum of Natural History, New York City, entitled "Contributions to the Ethnology of the Haida."

ALVA SWEEZEY. Olivet, Kan. I have nothing to report worthy of record. It is startling to be brought to a realization of the near approach of the decennial anniversary of the class of '96.

WILLIAM VOORHIS SWORDS. 362 Fifth avenue, New York City. Belong to Baltustrol Golf Club, Harvard Club, St. Nicholas Society, Richmond Hill Golf Club. Associated with the Æolian Company since Dec. 1, 1903. Prior to that was in woolen business for seven years. Married, Oct. 3, 1900, to Emma Napier, of Brooklyn, N.Y.

RICHMOND TALBOT. 52 William street, New York City. Since 1898 I have been a member of the firm Sanderson and Porter, engineers, engaged in installing of power plants and electric railroads.

JOHN S. P. TATLOCK. 701 South Ingalls street, Ann Harbor, Mich. I studied in the Harvard Graduate School, 1901-03, and in the latter year took the degree of Ph.D. in English. I then returned to the University of Michigan as instructor. For next year I have just been appointed assistant professor.

HARVEY W. THAYER. I was fellow in Germanic languages and literature at Columbia University 1901-02, and have just received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from that institution. I have been teaching in the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn and in the college of the city of New York, and have accepted position at Princeton for the coming year. Address is 85 Jara street, Brooklyn, or Princeton, N.J.

GEORGE THOMAS. Logan, Utah. Resigned from Agricultural College July, 1900. Did post-graduate work at Harvard 1900-1901. Received A.M. June, 1901. Sailed for Europe June 19, 1901. Traveled in England during summer. Entered the University of Halle-Wittenberg October, 1901, where I studied for one year. Studied at Berlin University during winter semester, 1902-1903. Received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Halle-Wittenberg March 7, 1903. Honors, magna cum laude. Title of thesis, "Die Geschichte der Zolltarife und Handelsverträge der Vereinigten Staaten seit 1875." Studied in University of Paris, spring term, 1903. Principal of Ogden City High School, Ogden, Utah, from 1903-1905. Appointed professor of history and economics in Agricultural College of Utah June, 1905.

RAPHAEL CLARKE THOMAS. Capiz, Philippine Islands. Intercollegiate secretary '97-'98 Y.M.C. A., Boston. Graduated from Harvard Medical School, 1902. Then surgical house officer at Boston City Hospital. Graduated from Newton Theological Institution 1904. Since December, 1904, I have been engaged in medical mission work in Panay Island, P.I., under the auspices of the American Baptist Missionary Union.

EDWARD L. THORNDIKE. Teachers College, Columbia University, New York. Profession, teaching. Married, Aug. 29, 1900, to Elizabeth Moulton. Children, Elizabeth Frances, born Aug. 19, 1902; Virginia Moulton, born July 4, 1904, died July 17, 1904; Edward Moulton, born Sept. 25, 1905.

CHARLES JOSEPH TILDEN. Ann Arbor, Mich. Entered service of the New York Rapid Transit Commission of New York City in February, 1901, as assistant engineer, and spent eight months in Pittsburg, Pa., as inspector of steel in charge of the Rapid Transit work at the Keystone Branch of the American Bridge Company. In October, 1901, promoted from inspection department to department of design in New York and spent the following two years there. In September, 1903, resigned from the Rapid Transit engineering staff to accept a position as instructor in civil engineering at Cornell University, where I remained for a year and a half. In January, 1905, accepted a better position at the University of Michigan, where I am now located. In addition to my teaching work in the engineering department of the University I am carrying on a consulting practice in civil and structural engineering. Elected associate member of the American Society of Civil Engineers Feb. 6, 1902. Was married Oct. 14, 1902, to Mabel Katherine Myers, of New York, and have a little daughter, Elinor, now nearly two years old.

EDWARD NELSON TOBEY. 168 Willow avenue, West Somerville, Mass. From Oct. 12, 1901, to April 8, 1902, I took the medical practice of Dr. Grouard at Nantucket. I then moved to West Somerville where I have been practising medicine since. Last year I was registered as a graduate student in the Harvard Medical School, and spent the mornings studying pathology at the Boston City Hospital. This year I have registered in the Graduate School and spent the same time in bacteriology. I shall exhibit some cultures of bacteria at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Medical Society in Mechanics Fair Building next Wednesday. I am vice-president of the Somerville Medical Society and a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, the Cambridge Medical improvement Society, the Boston Society of Medical Sciences, Soley Lodge, A.F. & A.M., and the Harvard Masonic Club. I am not married.

ARTHUR S. TODD. Derry, N.H. My experiences since last heard from may be summed up in this familiar quotation, "Per varios casus, per tot discrimina rerum, Tendimus in hatium." The variety of mishaps, hard luck (with apologies to the infidels who don't believe in such a thing), and crises of fortune I have been having all along. The "hatium," i.e., the principalship of a well-endowed, well-equipped academy of two hundred pupils is still in the mists of the future—at least I hope it is there waiting for me. The nearest I have come to it is my present position, accepted in response to a hurry-up call over the telephone some three weeks ago. I am the principal of the Berlin High School in a city of some thirteen thousand population,—about one hundred fifty pupils and six teachers. Owing to the destruction of the building by fire we meet in the fire-engine house (a very stimulating place). I came for a few weeks, but have been asked to finish the school year, and may do so if my surroundings don't grow too warm. Inasmuch as I have been unable to earn money enough to pay my own board-bills since I left college, I am naturally—I regret to say—unmarried, and likely to remain so in spite of the fact that I am a firm believer in the theories of our distinguished brother-Harvardian, Theodore Roosevelt. The will is present, but how to do I know not. Any suggestions along this line from fellow-classmates will be gratefully received.

DAVID TOWNSEND. 396 Harvard street, Brookline, Mass. After completing my course in the Harvard Medical School spent the year October, 1900 – October, 1901, in study in the hospitals and clinics of London, Vienna, and Germany. In March, 1902, began the practice of medicine on Harvard street, in Brookline. Married Nov. 1, 1902, to Mary Bacon Cruikshank, of Hannibal, Mo., in St. George's Church, Bloomsbury, London, Eng. No children. Served as graduate assistant in orthopedic outpatient department Children's Hospital, in Boston, January, 1902, to February, 1905. January, 1903, appointed assistant surgeon to the orthopedic staff of the Boston Dispensary, Boston, which position I still hold. Member of Massachusetts Medical Society, Brookline Medical Club, University Club of Boston, Athletic Association of Harvard Graduates, and Harvard Medical Alumni Association.

RALPH MILBOURNE TOWNSEND. The Philadelphia Club. Admitted to the Pennsylvania bar 1900. Married Ethel Godfrey Oct. 15, 1898. Issue: one daughter, Anne Hollingsworth Townsend, born Nov. 26, 1904. Very happy. Reasonably prosperous.

ARTHUR C. TRAIN. District Attorney's Office, New York City. For the last five years I have been a deputy assistant district attorney for the county of New York, and on January 1st was appointed an assistant district attorney. My work keeps me constantly in court in the trial of criminal cases of almost every sort and is, on the whole, intensely interesting and enjoyable. I have four children: Margaret Adams, born in Cambridge Feb. 4, 1898; Lucy Hartwell, born in Boston Oct. 3, 1899; Arthur Kissam, born in New York Oct. 3, 1901, and Helen, born in New York Dec. 12, 1905. During the last year or two I have written considerably for the magazines and have published a collection of short stories under the title of "McAllister and his Double," which has had a very gratifyng sale. During the present year The Saturday Evening Post of Philadelphia and Collier's Weekly are printing two series of popular legal articles under the title of "Prisoner at the Bar," which Scribner will publish some time next autumn. I have also in preparation a book of short stories and a serial, which will shortly appear in The Saturday Evening Post, called "Joaquistita." We have been spending most of our summers in Bar Harbor and for a while, at least, I expect to retain my present official position.

JOHN H. TRYBOM. 50 Miami avenue, Detroit, Mich. Author of "Cardboard Construction," published 1898, "Correlated Handwork," published 1905. Occupation: Director of manual training and domestic science, Detroit public schools.

J. W. TUDOR. Care H. D. Tudor, 35 Congress street, Boston, Mass. I am not married. My profession is mining engineering. E.M. degree Columbia University, '98. 1901-04, inclusive, was in South Africa with the De Beers Consolidated Mines as mine manager and later superintendent of mines. In 1903 took a three months' journey, exploring and hunting into the Barotee country along and north of the Zambesi river, five hundred miles of this on foot and in native dugouts. 1904 resigned from De Beers. 1905 traveling and mining exploration work throughout the United States and in the Yukon Territory.

EDMUND ELTINGE VANDER BURGH. Fall River, Mass. Since leaving Harvard my life has been full of changes, most of them rather uninteresting. I spent two years in Fall River in the cotton business, then was prospecting in the country to the northward of Cape Nome, Alaska, for three more. I had some success in mining and came to New York, where I have been two years in the wholesale boot and shoe business, one year with a firm of hop.brokers, and have been now for nearly a year manager of the fiber department with the Hoffman-Corr Manufacturing Company, a wholesale twine and cordage house.

VICTOR VIAUX. 10 Brimmer street, Boston, Mass. In the fall of 1903 I entered the Law School of the University of North Dakota and received the degree of LL.B. in June, 1905, and was admitted to the bar of that State. At present I am studying law at Boston University.

JONAS VILES. University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo. Since 1900 the facts in my uneventful career that may be of any interest to the class at large are: A Ph.D. in history from Harvard in 1901; a winter of study in London in 1901-02; an instructorship in history at the University of Missouri in 1902; assistant professorship in 1905, and title of professor of American history to date from Jan. 1, 1906. On June 10, 1903, I was married to Miss Ruth Bennett Hayes, of Providence, R.I. On Oct. 15, 1904, a son, Jonas, was born to us, who at present is a promising candidate for centre on some future eleven. Columbia is a thoroughly Christian community; twenty-one of the faculty who have spent at least a year at Harvard will endeavor to prove it to any of the men who may wander in. We have but one Yale man, who went there by mistake, and afterward reformed at Johns Hopkins and in Germany.

ARTHUR CLINTON WADSWORTH. Russell School, Cambridge, Mass. During the past five years I have been master of the above school and have dwelt within the classic shades of "Fair Harvard," passing under the "Washington Elm" each day in going to or from my work, imbibing more and more the spirit of loyalty to country and to the college we love so well. In June, 1901, Wooster University, of Wooster, Ohio, conferred upon me the degree of Ph.D. (I received A.M. in 1897) in psychology, as the result of four years of study and examination. Since 1900 I have been secretary of the Cambridge Schoolmasters'

Club one year, vice-president for one year, and president two years.

CLARENCE SEYMOUR WADSWORTH. Middletown, Conn. Graduated from the Law School (Harvard). Spent the winter 1900-01 here at Middletown; the three succeeding winters at my birthplace, 17 East 41st street, New York, and most of last winter (1904-05) at Aiken, S.C. Since May 11, 1902, Julius, my second son, born at New York. Feb. 17, 1903, commissioned second lieutenant Twelfth Regiment, N.G., New York. Feb. 9, 1904, commissioned first lieutenant Twelfth Regiment, N.G., New York. I have been mostly interested in laying out a place at Long Hill, near Middletown, and am about to build a house at Bar Harbor, Me., where we have spent the last four summers.

RICHARD GOODWIN WADSWORTH. 323 Beacon street, Boston. During 1900 I was a surgical house officer at the Massachusetts General Hospital, the term ending April 1, 1901. On June 25, 1901, I was married to Miss Mary H. Atkinson, of Brookline. After spending the summer in Europe I began the practice of medicine in Boston, having an office at 295 Beacon street. Since December, 1901, I have assisted Dr. Edward Reynolds in his private practice and have been assistant surgeon to out-patients at the Free Hospital for Women in Brookline. In October, 1904, I moved to my present address.

HARRY U. WAGNER. 4411 West 6th avenue, Denver, Col. In 1900-01 I was in the mail service. In 1902-03 I was general agent for the Western Book Company of Denver. Last year I was contractor for team work, and until my appointment in the civil service I took some interest in Republican politics. In March, 1905, I was appointed inspector of customs with headquarters at Pueblo, Col. On June 12, 1901, I was married to Miss Amalie

Marie Biegel. We have two boys, Harold Biegel Wagner, born June 27, 1902, and Raymond August Wagner, born Sept. 4, 1904.

ERNEST DE WOLFE WALES. 29 Commonwealth avenue, Boston. Married, June 21, 1899, Miss Franc Hale (Smith, '97), of Minneapolis; 1899 to 1900, spent in Europe pursuing post-graduate work on diseases of the ear, nose, and throat in Berlin and London; 1901, built a home on Lowell street, Braintree; appointed aural clinical assistant at the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary; April 4, 1902, a daughter born, Jeannette; 1902 to 1903, appointed aural house officer Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary; Jan. 7, 1904, a daughter born, Elizabeth; October, 1904, assistant in otology, Harvard Medical School; 1904, appointed assistant aural surgeon to Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary; 1905, appointed assistant to throat room, Massachusetts General Hospital; 1905, associate member American Otological Society, member Massachusetts Medical Society, American Medical Association, Boston Society of Medical Sciences; New England Otological, Rhinological and Laryngological Society. Residence, 27 Lowell street, Braintree; office, 29 Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

JOHN CHAMBERLAIN WARD. 1137 West avenue, Buffalo, N.Y. My life since 1900 has been spent in parish work. It has been uneventful but busy. If any man thinks that a minister has an easy time I beg to inform him that he is mistaken. A minister who does not work "from morn till noon, from noon till dewy eve," is an exception. After three years' work in St. Stephen's Parish, Buffalo, I accepted a call to Grace Parish in the same place. I began work there on Whitsunday, 1902, and am still at it. I can report no births, deaths or marriages, except those in the parish register — which would not "interest the rest of the class."

JOHN WARREN. 58 Beacon street, Boston. Is demonstrator of anatomy at the Harvard Medical School.

JOSEPH P. WARREN. 27 North Hall, University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill. Is instructor of history and member of the faculty.

PRESCOTT WARREN. George street, Newton. Business address, Stanley Motor Carriage Company, Newton. I have been in the advertising business since leaving college until Jan. 1, 1906, when I joined the Stanley Motor Carriage Company, where I am looking after the selling end.

ARTHUR IRVING WEIL. 945 Madison avenue, New York. Since 1900 I have been practising medicine in New York City. No wife, no children, and no history.

ARTHUR RINDGE WENDELL. 348 West 12th street, New York City. On Nov. 8, 1902, I was married to Miss Grace F. Peck, of New York City. Since June, 1903, I have been treasurer of the Wheatena Company at the above address. I belong to the Harvard Club and the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club, both of New York City.

DANIEL B. WENTZ. Land Title building, Philadelphia, Pa. Is vice-president of the Virginia Coal & Iron Co. Married Miss Louise Finlay, of St. Louis, and has one child.

LOUIS JERAULD WEST. Provincetown, Mass. Sill continue the work of teaching. Completed the course for college graduates at Bridgewater Normal in 1901. Principal of Avery School, Needham, in 1902. Principal of Wadleigh School, Winchester, 1903 and 1904. Master of the Pierce District, Newton, from 1904 to date.

GILBERT D. WESTON. 8 Pond street, Beverly, Mass. Am engaged in same business as at time of last report. In 1902 was elected on school committee of city of Beverly. Still serving.

CLARENCE N. WHEELER. Ampere, N.J. The principal event since 1900 was my marriage on June 27, 1904, to Sarah Joanna Conklin, of Newark, N.J. In business I am still with the Crocker-Wheeler Company, of Ampere, N.J., who manufacture motors, dynamos, and electrical apparatus.

JOHN HERSEY WHEELER. I am still at the head of the modern language department of the South Dakota Agricultural College. My permanent address is Brookings, South Dakota. In the summer of 1901 studied in Paris and traveled through France and Germany with my wife.

HARVEY L. WHEELOCK. Harvard Medical School, Boston. Is at present engaged in the study of medicine.

CLIFFORD A. WHITE. Northampton, Mass. There is not much to say. I have been practising medicine in this place for the last four years. I am not yet married and have no prospect of it.

JOHN A. WHITE. 1425 Marquette building, Chicago, Ill. I beg to inform you that there have been in my peaceful existence since the last class report no events which I could consider worthy of being recorded for the interest of my classmates. I have been located in Chicago since Sept. 1, 1903, in the employ of the Electric Storage Battery Company, with which company I have been associated for the past seven years. "Unmarried." "No prospects."

O. C. WHITE, JR. 11 Haviland street, Worcester, Mass. In the interval of my life from 1900 to the present date, several events have occurred which I regard as of great importance to me as well as to certain others directly concerned. On June 19, 1900, I was married to Helen Louise Burtis, a resident of Worcester, Mass. On March 22, 1904, we were blessed with a little daughter, whom we named Dorothy Burtis White. I hold the position of secretary of the O. C. White Company, with which I have been identified ever since my graduation from Harvard. Our business is the manufacture — under our own patents — of fixtures for electric lighting. We have been fairly prosperous and the prospects seem good for a continued increase. My home address is 11 Haviland street and our factory is located at 17 Hermon street, Worcester, Mass.

GRAFTON WHITING. Brookline, Mass. Since writing the last account of my life many changes have taken place. About three years ago my father died and the full responsibility of head of the family fell upon me. Shortly afterwards I accepted a position with the Library Bureau and have been with them ever since, making my headquarters at 43 Federal street, with the sales department. On June 3, 1905, I was married to Miss May S. Rathay, of Quebec, Can., and am at present leading a happy life at 15 Strathmore road, Brookline, Mass., where members of the class of '96 will find a hearty welcome.

STEPHEN EDGAR WHITING. Instructor in electrical engineering Harvard University.

HORACE E. WHITNEY. 426 Putnam avenue, Cambridge, Mass. Married. Twin boys. Business: President of Dover Stamping & Manufacturing Co.

FRANK BRUCE WHITTEMORE. Was at St. Mark's School, Southboro, Mass., as master, until July, 1901, since which time have been associated with Messrs. Wrenn Bros. & Co., stock brokers, at 24 Broad street, New York, N.Y. Nothing else of special interest.

WILLIAM FRENCH WILBOUR. 27 West 44th street, New York City. LL.B. Harvard Law School, 1899. European travel and study 1899. Admitted to bar of New York State 1900. Appointed to office in the new tenement house department of the city of New York by Commissioner Robert W. de Forest 1902. Served in office of the corporation counsel, city of New York, 1902-03, 1903-05. Engaged in private practice of the law with office at 141 Broadway, New York City. Resident member of the Harvard, City, and Amateur Comedy Clubs, of New York.

RALPH BLAKE WILLIAMS. 424 Beacon street, Boston. I am still at work as a trustee with an office at 55 Kilby street, Boston. So far I have had a most uneventful career and cannot touch upon any of the headings you suggest. The next time you call upon us I hope to be more entertaining.

THOMAS STOTESBURY WILLIAMS. I am practising law, being a member of the firm of Hannis, Williams & Bunting, No. 560 Drexel building, Philadelphia. I am treasurer of the Civil Service Reform Association, of Pennsylvania, and secretary of the Citizens' Permanent Relief Committee, of Philadelphia. I was married on April 6, 1904, to Miss Lucretia Barnard Justice, of Philadelphia, and have one child, Henry Justice Williams, born May 12, 1905. I reside near Jenkintown, Montgomery County, Pa. Prior to moving from Philadelphia, in 1904, I had for several years taken some part in "reform politics."

CLARENCE R. WILSON. Pacific building, 622 F street, Washington, D.C. Since 1900 I have been practising law in Washington with my father, Nathaniel Wilson. I was married, on June 11, 1904, to Elizabeth Wakeman Ashton, of Washington, D.C. A daughter, Eleanor Ashton Wilson, was born on March 29, 1905.

ANDREW N. WINSLOW. Hammond street, Chestnut Hill, Mass. Still in the umbrella business.

WAVERLEY T. WONSON. 129 Beach street, Roslindale, Mass. I have been plodding along since '96 in the employ of Andrew J. Lloyd & Co., opticians, Boston, and am still with that firm, not so much because I am indispensable to them but that they are indispensable to me. I was married in October, 1900, to Miss Martha L. Root, of East Douglas, Mass., a Tufts College girl. Since marriage I have lived at Roslindale, Mass.

ROBERT S. WOODWORTH. Columbia University, New York City. In the last five years my adventures have been of the usual sort for men who adopt a scientific career — changes of post, publication of studies, and so on. To be more specific, in 1900 I was teaching physiology in the Bellevue Medical School, New York. In 1902 I pulled up stakes and went to England for a year of study in brain physiology; was fellow and afterwards demonstrator in the University of Liverpool. On returning in 1903 I became instructor in psychology in Columbia, and have just been promoted to be adjunct professor. There is quite a bunch of '96 men here in the same department: Thorndike, Montague, and myself. Sheldon, '95, was also with us for the last three years. My largest effort in writing has been a book on the psychology of movement, published in a French series. While in England I was married to Miss Gabrielle M. Schjöth, and one result is a year-old youngster kicking about the house and doing his best to break up the traditional calm of the philosopher.

JOHN L. WORDEN. Drexel building, New York City. Is with Worden & Co. at above address.

GEORGE LAWSON WRENN, JR. 24 Broad street, New York. 1900, residence, Boston; business, stock brokerage. 1901–1905, residence, New York ; business, stock brokerage. Member of firm of Wrenn Bros. & Co.

HARRY GAGE WYER. (M.D. 1900.) Permanent address : Room 220, Frisco building, St. Louis, Mo. Boston City Hospital till October, 1900. June 11, 1901, married in St. Louis to Miss Berenice Crumb, St. Louis. Children born : daughter, June 13, 1902 ; son, Nov. 14, 1904. Have practised in Kirkwood, a suburb of St. Louis, since February, 1901. Offices in Frisco building, St. Louis, 1905. Member St. Louis County Medical Society, and Missouri State Medical Association. Have not yet broken into print. Shall do my utmost to be at decennial in 1906.

BRUCE WYMAN. Professional details : practitioner at Massachusetts bar, 1900–1906 ; member of the faculty of the Harvard Law School, 1902–1906 ; lecturer in the Law School of the University of Chicago, 1903–1904 ; instructor in economics in Harvard University, 1902–1906 ; editor of "Cases on Public Service Companies" (1902) ; "Cases on Restraint of Trade" (1903) ; "Cases on Engineering Contracts" (1903) ; and "Cases on Mortgages" (1904). Author of "Administrative Law" (1904) ; "The Trust Problem" (1904), and various articles in the Harvard Law Review (1902–1904), and the Green Bag (1903–1905). Business addresses : Austin Hall, Cambridge, Mass. ; 617 Old South building, Boston, Mass. Personal details : Married Mary Ethel Andrews, June 30, 1902. Son, Andrews Wyman, born Oct. 3, 1905.
